3 1/2-yr. steel pact assures stability

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

By a vote of 169 to 63, United Steelworkers local president's agreed Tuesday in Pittsburgh to a 41-month contract, that cuts pay initially but restores it later. Included in the pact is National Steel Corp., owner of Granite City Steel.

Buddy W. Davis, District 34 director of the union, favored ratification but cautioned Tuesday that the "steel-making survival plan" may not be enough to assure permanent solution of the industry's problems.

"The U.S. must recognize there is unfair competition from Japan and the Third World. We need a fair trade policy, not free trade, if our domestic industries are going to survive. We've taken realistic action, and it is how up to the government."

Edward L. Sambuchi, Granite City Steel vice president and general manager, told the Press-Record that better days may be ahead—sales are starting to improve, prices are becoming firmer, and the prospect of a production stoppage this summer has been avoided.

"This gives assurance to our customers that labor and management are working together to win their business. With an agreement reached, we can all get back to the task of producing high-quality steel."

"We will have stability, and this is important. We need to resume making a profit and invest it in plant improvements."

Affecting employees of National Steel, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Inland, Republic, Jones & Laughlin and Armco, the new pact ends worry over a possible

Foreign steel bought for water company job

By PATRICK FOLEY
of the Press-Record

Should an American company or public utility purchase and use only American-made goods? This question has taken on a specific local meaning since the delivery of steel pipe casings to an Illinois-American Water Co. project site at East 23rd Street and Highway 162, in front of Lake School.

The manufacturer's name, Nippon Steel Corp., a Japanese firm, stamped on the 24-inch diameter steel casings, and the words "made in Japan" are visible from the East 23rd Street roadway and are producing some not-so-surprising comments.

One motorist, while passing by, noticed a photographer taking pictures of the foreign-made casings and shouted out, "They're from Japan," in an angry tone.

Robert Jackson, district manager of the water company, said, "It surprised me that it (the casing) was made in Japan."

"We solicit quotations from various suppliers in the area," he said. The company purchases from the supplier

Another delay in lead study

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) study to determine if lead exposure here poses a commuty health risk is off schedule by at least two months due to a federal EPA holdup, according to IEPA Springfield official James J. Maloney.

In a related matter, the IEPA has put on temporary hold Taracorp Industries' request to renew certain of its state operating permits. Taracorp, a lead-smelting operation at 16th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, is being specially monitored by the state in its local investigation of continued high lead readings.

The state must submit a Granite City lead State Implementation Plan (SIP) to the U.S. EPA by mid-1983 to show a firm plan to correct the continuing violations here.

Maloney explained that the state's actions toward Taracorp are an attempt to encourage the industry "to get emissions down." Taracorp's neighbor, St. Louis Battery Recyclers, already has submitted for IEPA review more stringent plans to control dust, that might be raised as it mines Taracorp's 250,000-ton scrap pile containing

GC air board in limbo

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler intends to keep the Granite City Air Pollution Board on an inactive status until he receives a signal from aldermen to change course.

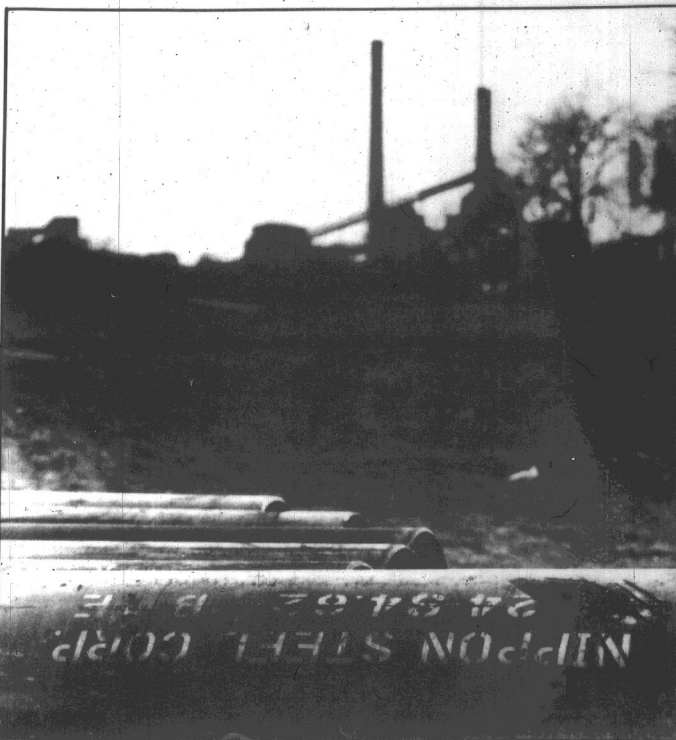

Schuler's comments referred to his one-year delay in appointing new air pollution board members after the resignation of President R. William Rottler, member J. R. Shanks and Ted Macios, technical secretary. They left the board in January, 1981, about five months after the city layed off most of its air monitoring staff.

Those layoffs and subsequent air monitoring budget cuts by the city council resulted in the state Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) dissolving Granite City's status as a member agency last June. The city had been receiving as much as $44,953 from the U.S. EPA for its role in air monitoring here.

"The board is no good without Japanese steel pipe casing, made by the Nippon Steel Corp., has been delivered to a project site of the Illinois-American Water Co. at East 23rd Street and Highway 162, in the shadows of the Granite City Steel coke plant facility (in the background). The 180 feet of foreign-made casing was bought from a St. Louis firm, which offered the lowest bid price. The water company does not specify domestically-made materials when making purchases.

School drug program successful

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

The pilot program in drug abuse and alcohol prevention through educational classes in the elementary grades that was instituted in September in the class curriculum at Maryville School has proven very successful, according to Jack Mulach, school principal.

"Students have been very receptive to this new concept in the classroom and will openly discuss drugs by name or slang reference, the principal added. Film strip and slide presentations are shown to pupils in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades on all phases of drug and alcohol consumption and prevention. Following the viewing, the students enter into discussions with teachers and, at times, provide information not known by adults, Mulach said.

Since this program was started, in all classes the teachers have a positive attitude as to its value and said they did not realize how much the young students knew about drugs.

Pupils are asked to find advertisements relating to cigarettes or alcohol and put them together in booklets as references as to what the habit can lead to. If a discussion is in an English class, they are required to write themes on the drugs and its prevention, thus encouraging an investigative drive to find all information available.

The teachers are so pleased with the new program that they volunteer their time to attend workshops at 8 a.m. some days to review all aspects of the project. There is no cost for the program, since the state provides informational material for study.

"We also are sent material from the office of (Harold E.) 'Gene' Briggs, regional superintendent of schools, and from Plaza Self-Care, Inc., Madison County Council, whose prevention coordinator is Mrs. Jean Schram," Mulach explained.

As the program has progressed, several meetings have been conducted with parents for their opinions and input in the pilot project. "I think the parents were most concerned that drugs might be distributed on the playground by some unknown person who might give the youngsters candy laced with a drug or stickers that are applied to the skin and cause a reaction through the glue. To my knowledge this is not happening at Maryville school," Mulach said.

Basically, the subject is introduced in health and science classes. In the

Reception to bid farewell to Salvation Army's commanders

Captains Donald E. and Barbara Salsbury, commanding officers of the Salvation Army in Granite City for the past two-and-a-half years, have been reassigned to Joplin, Mo., it was announced this week.

A farewell reception for the two officers and their family, is planned at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 6, at the Salvation Army Community Center, 3007 E. 23rd St., when the two also will conduct their final service here.

Salvation Army members and friends are being invited to attend the event. Refreshments will be served.

The Salsbury family, which includes a son, Scott, and a daughter, Karla, is expecting to leave next week for its new home in Joplin.

Mr. and Mrs. James Shields of St. Louis have been placed in charge of the Granite City Salvation Army Corps at the present time, it was announced.

During the Salsburys' tenure here, a successful cheese distribution program has been in operation at Corps headquarters for eligible area residents.

The Salvation Army has a direct distributorship contract with the Illinois Office of Public Aid and in January served more than 1,000 persons with the five-pound blocks of surplus cheese within a two-hour period.

Captain Salsbury initiated the cheese distribution program here late last year.

In 1982, the local Salvation Army Tree of Lights also proved highly successful, topping its announced goal of $3,000 by $3,294 and enabling 5,551 people to benefit from the annual appeal.

Donald and Barbara Salsbury came here in July, 1980, from Milwaukee, Wis., where both received training for work at adult rehabilitation centers.

Prior to that time, the officers served in Cadillac, Mich., for two years, Evansville, Ind., for two years, and Peru, Ind., four years, followed by one year in Milwaukee.

Also on the tour's agenda is a visit to Innsbruck, Austria, where the Olympic Games were held in 1964 and 1976. Students will see a view of the steep slopes of the Nordkette Mountains, snow-covered most of the year.

In Venice, the students will travel via boat to Piazza San Marco, the Rialto Bridge, the Bridge of Sighs, the Grand Canal with over 200 palaces, the Doges Palace and other sites. Following the tour of Venice, the trip continues to Cannes, one of the most popular resorts on the French Riviera. Then via Nice, famous for its climate and innumerable attractions, the tour continues to Monte Carlo.

In Monte Carlo, the Place du Palace, the Casino and the beauty of the Mediterranean Sea will be enjoyed. Then, after a day in Lyon, the tour will arrive in Paris. Sightseeing in Paris will include the French Army Museum, the Church of Sacre-Coeur, the Louvre, the Camps-Elisees, the Cathedral of Notre Dame and the Eiffel Tower.

The tour is under the direction of Jack Haskell, a history instructor at BAC for 15 years. Haskell, an expert in the history of Western Civilization, first conducted the tour in 1975.

The tour leaves from St. Louis, Sunday, May 15, and returns Sunday, May 29. The cost of $1,495, includes transportation and motel accommodations. Meals included are Continental breakfasts, five dinners, lunch on Paris tour, and appropriate meals en route. Admission fee to sites that are escorted on the tour's itinerary also is included.

Scouts find jail is a nice place to visit

"It's a nice place to visit - but I wouldn't want to live there."

Boy Scouts of Troop 96 utilized a late-February weekend for a Scout Month tour of facilities at the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Sheriff Emil Toffani gave the group a tour of his office, explaining his duties as county sheriff. He showed keepers from his baseball career with the Cincinnati Reds.

The boys also were shown the detective office area, the room where all evidence is catalogued and stored, and the site where county of-ficers store their guns.

Officer Dan Sipes then took the group through the jail, the main control center, the "drunk tank," the "buzzer" room, the outdoor recreation area, trustees' cells, the infirmary and the kitchen area.

Sipes fingerprinted each person in the group who wanted to have prints taken. This helped the boys who were working on the fingerprint merit badge.

The boys were impressed by the total operation at the jail, but the light security especially impressed them.

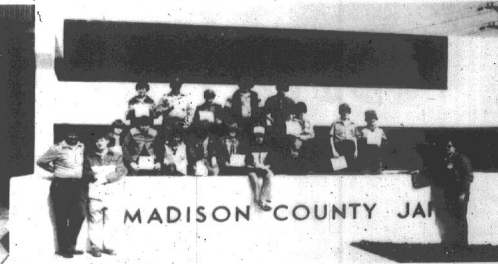

From the main control center, a person can watch the arrival of a prisoner and keep him in view until the cell door is closed. It was noted. The windows are bullet proof.

Those in attendance were Scoutmaster Gary Morris, Tom Thebeau, Bob Grayson, Ronnie Crippen and Bud Charbonnier. Boy Scouts Chris Morris, Ryan Thebeau, Darrell Scheffer, Darrell Young, Doug Hale, Eric DeWesse, Mike Charbonnier, Daniel Grayson, Harold Krohne, Richard Watson, Kevin Mudd, David Chapman, Jerry Landrip and Richard Clancy and guests Allen Charbonnier and Ernie Laycock.

Afterward, a meeting was held and awards were given to: Mike Charbonnier, safety merit badge; Ryan Thebeau, first-class rank; Daniel Grayson, pet merit badge and first-class; Doug Hale, camping merit badge; and Chris Morris, home repair merit badge.

A paper drive was held Saturday.

ALCOHOL VIOLATION Recalling a report of several youths drinking beer last week, officers went to St. Elizabeth Church lot at Pontoon and Johnson Roads and talked with Franklin G. DeLozier, 19, of 4537 Walter Ave., who allegedly admitted having beer while in an auto and was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol.

Nameoki agrees to loan money to Pontoon for senior center

By PATH HAYLUTZ
Nameoki Township officials unanimously approved a $25,000 loan to Pontoon Beach for construction of a senior citizens' center in Pontoon Beach. At the request of village officials, Nameoki Township trustees passed a resolution Monday night which allows Madison County Community Development official to transfer that township's uncommitted funds to Pontoon Beach for the senior citizens' center.

The funds will be reimbursed to the township with the village's October, 1983, allocation of Community Development funds. Although he eventually approved the loan, Trustee Joe Garcia appeared hesitant in allowing the funds to go to Pontoon Beach. Citing the present conflict over $23,000 which township officials believe was loaned to Madison County for a sewer study in 1972, Garcia said, "I am 100 percent for a senior citizens' center in any shape, way, or form, but I don't want to get hornswoggled again." (State's attorney Irvin J. Slate Jr. is presently trying to locate some evidence of debt in the dispute which would force the county to repay the money to the township.)

After agreeing with Pontoon Beach Mayor Paul Bennett that senior citizens of Nameoki Township also will use the new facility, Supervisor Harry Briggs voiced his approval of the loan. "We'll have a senior citizens' center, go golly," he said.

In other business, Briggs indicated that numerous incidents of vandalism had occurred in the Northland Estates, Foreman Heights and Foreman Court, and warned parents to watch their teenagers. "If these attacks are committed by juveniles, the parents are responsible," he stated. "Maybe the parents will keep a better eye on their children if they realize who is responsible," he added.

He also explained that the Madison County sheriff is watching the area very closely in an effort to prosecute the offenders.

At the suggestion of Trustee W. Lee Adams, Township officials again refused to pay a $709 bill for concrete used by the highway department at a church on Maryville Road and in a driveway at Vine and Dawn.

According to Adams, the work for the church was done on a public right-of-way, and the concrete used for the driveway was put into a private driveway. "The board has refused to pay this bill twice," Adams stated. "I don't think it should keep coming up. We aren't going to pay it," he added. Adams also requested invoices for materials and supplies used by the highway

Outstanding efforts by Weber

State's Attorney Don Weber gets a compliment and a suggestion in this comment on two criminal cases decided in Madison County in 1982.

Despite criticism of the move, the prosecutor persisted in investigating a Collinsville teacher about whom rumors of intimacy with young girls had circulated for several years.

There was criticism because many of the allegations related to St. Clair County and that county had declared the evidence insufficient. Weber moved boldly ahead, did a masterful job in the courtroom and got a conviction.

It was a difficult case because many students and former students had to go to the witness stand and answer embarrassing questions. But difficulty must not be allowed to stand in the way of needed prosecution.

Weber could have ducked the issue without much harm to his reputation, but did not. He could meet it head-on and did so, even though he had a lot to lose if he were found misfired.

Similar willingness to "stand up and be counted" is warranted in the case of Don Benny Anderson, chief abductor of Dr. and Mrs. Hector Zevallos last August. Anderson received a 30-year federal prison term for disrupting commerce, but avoided a U.S. kidnapping charge by not crossing the Illinois state line. Noting that Anderson also faces possible East Coast prosecution for arson, and that the 30-year sentence is being served, the U.S. prosecutor chose not to charge the prisoner with an alleged plot. (Other inmates said he sought to arrange for someone to kidnap a St. Clair County jail official's wife, who was to be set free in exchange for allowing Anderson to escape.)

We doubt that he would have been released under such circumstances and we think that, even if freed, he would have been recaptured quickly. He was not imaginative enough earlier to avoid being arrested for the Zevallos' abduction, even though aware that he was being sought.

But the jail talk indicates Anderson still may be a highly dangerous individual, ignoring others' rights for what he regards as sufficient reason, whether it be "war against abortion" or his personal freedom.

We now think Weber ought to "throw the book" at Anderson and put him on trial for violating Illinois law in kidnapping the Zevallos.

Eight days' imprisonment against one's wishes clearly is a kidnapping case as well as interference with commerce. And an additional sentence would be a further safeguard against Anderson getting a chance to violate others' rights in the future.

Steel pact good news for area

Approval of a 41-month contract between steel companies and steelworkers Tuesday is heartening news for the Quad-City area.

"Givebacks" will reduce employees' pay but the same wage level will be regained in three steps during the course of the new agreement, which expires July 31, 1986. Supplemental benefits will be bolstered for those on layoffs.

Cost-of-living and vacation benefits will be altered, but mills will devote such savings to upgrading their steelmaking capability.

In contrast to the gloomy situation in which comparative unit costs here and in Japan seemed to be constantly widening, there will be a change of direction—giving added hope of both short-range and long-term viability for basic industries in the United States. High pay levels and fringes are fine, if they can be justified, but they are without any value if employers go out of business or if sales shrink to nothing.

It undoubtedly was tempting to many workers to continue to defend all of the contract elements that had been agreed to three years ago. But retention of the past pay and benefit provisions for a few more months this spring would have been shortsighted and self-defeating. Time has been running out, and rapidly.

Appeal for action on lead study

The wait is not over for the Granite City. As gardeners plant spring seeds, some of the fruits of last year's crop sits in the laboratories of Federal Food and Drug Administration analysts. As children play in yards across the street from air monitors and planners ready for a nearby youth sports complex, blood sample data from some young citizens is being fed into the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's (IEPA) computer banks to review lead levels.

The IEPA cautions against premature nervousness, but the wait is unpleasant and now has been extended, perhaps unnecessarily.

In September, the state IEPA promised that comprehensive test results to determine the possible effects of local high lead exposure would be ready in late February or early March. Last October, the state approached the U.S. EPA for financial help on a portion of the project — the segment intended to identify the industrial source of the lead violations. It took until last week for funds to be approved.

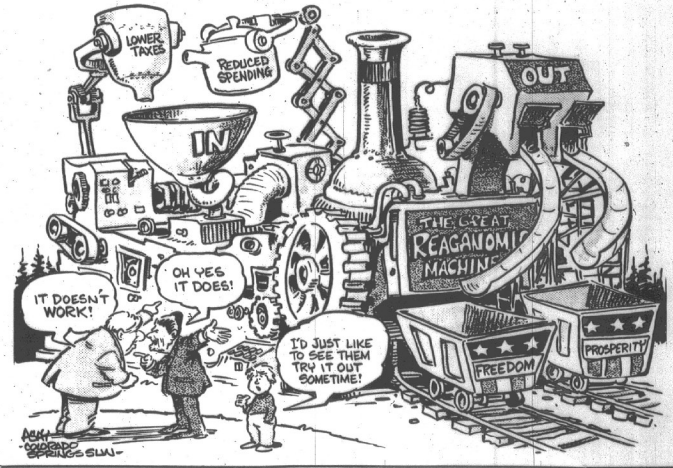

While some phases of the project continue and naturally hit their own scientific snags, decisions which can be made quickly, for the protection of everyone's health, should be made quickly.

For at least five years, we have lived with high air lead readings. Last fall — as medical researchers advance theories about a possible link between learning disabilities and elevated blood lead levels — results were promised. Now we are told to wait until May, at least.

But as long as the public continues to apologize to their employers for clean air standards, as long as city, state and federal officials hunt for loopholes instead of thoughtfully investigating potential problems, we may continue to wait.

The Taracorp scrap pile filled with lead battery casings is supposedly more than 80 years old. At a time before clean air standards were considered or the hazards of lead pollution were understood, battery casing chips were believed used to coat area parking lots and paths, according to some local citizens. Those who traveled over those surfaces moved in regrettable ignorance. Let us not travel in their paths.

President Ronald Reagan says the nation's economic ills are on the mend, but do Quad-Cityans share his view that the economy is improving? Press-Record reader reactions follow.

Ralph Bailey, Granite City
"It appears to me that it is I do see signs, in my opinion, of a break. That things are turning for the better."

Michelle Koch, Granite City
"No, I don't think so. Gas, groceries, everything is going up. They tell you the news prices are going down, but where? Yet, they keep telling us the economy is doing better."

Dora Vaught, Granite City
"Yes, slowly, but it is, according to all the reports on TV and reading and listening. It didn't go down all at once, and it is not going to come up all at once."

Ruth Travis, Granite City
"As of the last week or so it seems as if it (the economy) is improving in the country as a whole, but locally I understand the problems of the unemployed."

Offers suggestions to save jurors' time

To the Editor: Last week I had my first experience of serving on a jury duty. When I received the notice for jury duty I was looking forward to seeing how our judicial system works. I know little more now than I did before, other than a lot of time and money is wasted.

My first day I was to report at 9 a.m. at the Granite City Court. After searching for a parking place without a meter or a two-hour limit sign, I finally joined approximately 40 other people outside of the courtroom. There we waited for about an hour.

Finally we were called into the courtroom and roll call was taken. A group of us was chosen for the first case, a two-hour limit sign, I finally joined approximately 40 other people outside of the courtroom. There we waited for about an hour.

When I entered the jury waiting room, it was wall to wall people. I would guess about 150. Roll call was taken, then our trial began.

In Edwardsville, I heard one man say that his job did not pay employees when they were on jury duty. One of jurors were to be picked. Needed to say, I o'clock came and went and still we sat without any information being given to us.

At about 2:30, they came and called 50 some odd people for a jury. Then we were told that the other four cases had been settled out of court, so we were released from any other jury duty and could go home.

For three days I and many others sat for hours and hours without a word of explanation. Not one word were told of why court was being delayed, either in Granite City or Edwardsville. You just sit, on very hard chairs, wondering what was going on and getting more agitated by the minute.

My experience was not unusual. Many of the people in our group who had served on jury duty before spent time sitting and never being on a case.

In Edwardsville, I heard one man say that his job did not pay employees when they were on jury duty. One juror said we received pay for our time, but I had no idea how much. No court official had ever mentioned any pay. When we were released from jury duty, we were told that our checks would be mailed to us, but again no mention of the amount.

There must be a better way to run our courts. I see why people who serve on jury duty once, hope they are never called again. You feel like you have wasted your time and accomplished very little.

I feel that any case that gets as far as the courtroom should have to follow through to a jury decision. This, I feel would be an incentive to settle these cases before they get to the courtroom, thus saving the cost of jurors sitting for nothing, not to mention the judge and other personnel. Also, more cases could be settled without so much time being wasted.

To the Editor: Being a parent of an elementary school band member, I feel hurt that the band program at the grade school level is being dropped.

It's at the early age during the 4th, 5th and 6th grades that the interested children should be given the opportunity for lessons.

If we must wait till 7th grade to start training, there won't be the needed interest. In just a few short years, there won't be enough capable musicians to make up a high school band.

Musical training can enlighten a person throughout his life, even if he doesn't pursue it any further than high school level.

Smith is slain, youth charged

A 16-year-old Venice youth was charged Tuesday with murder and armed violence under the adult criminal code, without a hearing, in the shooting death Monday of George Smith, 70, of 623 Mercedia Ave., Venice.

Kennan Isaac, of the 600 block of Salver Ave., was charged with shooting Mr. Smith three times in the chest with a .38-caliber revolver while the victim was in his home.

Isaac is in custody at the Third Circuit Chief Associate Judge Edward C. Ferguson set bail at $250,000 on Tuesday.

Venice police received a call at 11:35 a.m. Monday that someone had been shot. Arriving at the scene, officers found Mr. Smith inside his home, still breathing.

He was alive when placed in an ambulance but was pronounced dead by Deputy Coroner Dick Mizell at 12:08 p.m. after the vehicle had reached St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The suspect had fled. He was arrested last night. He was taken to the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home in Edwardsville.

Authorities said neighbors reported seeing Isaac at the Smith residence earlier that day.

A motive is still unclear. Authorities confirmed that Isaac was a formerly employed by Mr. Smith, who owned and operated a confectionery attached to his home.

A family member said Mr. Smith had operated the business periodically and received only a couple of years ago.

Although he technically is a juvenile, Isaac will be tried as an adult under a new law that allows automatic prosecution of suspects under 17 involved in serious crimes.

Mr. Smith is survived by nine children, one sister, one brother, 18 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Additional information appears in the obituary column.

State elections board to decide tomorrow whether to investigate Urban allegations about Weber

The chairman and vice-chairman of the State Board of Elections are expected to decide by Friday whether a full investigation is warranted into possible violations of the campaign financing disclosure act by Don Weber.

There have been allegations that Weber in his 1980 campaign for Madison County state's attorney failed to report contributions from Ben Urban, the Collinsville attorney sentenced Monday to three years in prison on theft charges.

Phil Gilbert, chairman of the State Board of Elections, said the board's staff was expected to report to him by this afternoon or early Friday on the results of a preliminary inquiry. If he and the vice-chairman decide a full investigation is warranted, procedures will be followed to bring Weber's campaign committee into compliance with the law, Gilbert said.

Urban testified during his sentencing hearing Monday that he gave $485 in the form of ticket purchases at a dinner for Weber on Oct. 17, 1980, at Sunset Hills Country Club. He said he has a cancelled check to prove he paid the money.

The following year, he attended a cocktail party for Weber and gave $400 or $450 in the form of ticket purchases, he said. Urban said he has been unable to locate a receipt for that payment.

Gilbert said ticket sales over $150 from any individual are supposed to be listed on campaign disclosure reports. No such payments from Urban were listed on Weber's report. In a confidential pre-sentencing report, Urban is said to have told a probation officer that he gave Weber $20,000 to $30,000 of the money Urban stole.

Gilbert said Monday that if the pre-sentencing report differed from his testimony at the hearing, the report was inaccurate.

Gilbert said that if a violation of the law by Weber is found, his committee will be given the opportunity to make a full disclosure. Failure to comply is a misdemeanor, Gilbert said.

Weber's committee is reportedly willing to disclose whatever information it has.

Tom Long, Weber's campaign manager, said 20 $50 tickets were given to each person helping with the fundraising dinner. Explicit instructions were given that names of people buying more than three tickets had to be turned in, he said.

Long said the committee interpreted the law to mean that if a person sold tickets to 10 people (at a cost of more than $150), individuals' names do not have to be given. It was presumed that Urban sold the tickets to 10 people, he said.

Long said Weber told him that the check Urban claimed to have given was endorsed "Donald Weber." Weber's first name is not Donald, Long said.

Long described as "absolutely unfounded" Urban's claim that he gave $400 or $450 at a Weber cocktail party in 1981. "He can't find anything (a receipt) because he didn't give anything," Long said.

Three-year sentence for Urban

By ED GURNEY

Ben Urban, former city attorney for Collinsville, is expected to appeal the three-year prison sentence he received Monday on charges of using phony dismissal orders to obtain bond money from in-truck overweight cases.

After sentencing Urban, Madison County Associate Judge John Day ordered him to remain free on bond for 30 days, pending a possible appeal.

Urban and his attorney had asked for probation.

Urban, 41, a Collinsville attorney, had pleaded guilty in December to four felony counts of theft in a plea bargaining agreement. He admitted to having received $146,788 from the circuit clerk's office by using fraudulent documents.

Workers at the county's hearing in East Alton, ordered Urban to make restitution for the $146,788 within five years.

The judge said that "overriding considerations" in his decision to order a prison term were the facts that Urban had used his professional reputation to commit the crime and that the sentence was necessary to deter others.

Day added that Urban had engaged in a calculated activity over a period of time and might have continued, had he not been caught. Urban admitted receiving 178 checks over a several-year period, ranging in value from $400 to about $4,000.

Urban is not expected to withdraw his guilty plea. The judge said that if he did that, he would ask the state's attorney for advice to reinstate the five other theft charges and a forgery charge that had been dismissed as part of a plea bargaining agreement.

The employee handed over between $485 and $100 from the register and again the robber cautioned the owner and clerk not to do anything stupid until he backed out of the store. The man left on foot, going west on Denver, Green advised police.

Bert Hampton to head housing authority

By PAIGE ST. JOHN
Bert Hampton, who turned down the job four years ago, is the new executive director of the Madison County Housing Authority.

In a special five-minute meeting last week, the housing authority board of commissioners unanimously voted to give the $32,000-a-year job to Hampton, a Belleville resident who has been director of housing programs for the St. Clair County Housing Authority.

Hampton is to take over on March 14, replacing acting Executive Director Dewey VanDyke. VanDyke will return to his previous post as assistant director.

The housing board voted 3-2 in December, 1978, to offer the director's job to Hampton. The split vote was apparently the reason he rejected the offer, because he told the board in a letter that "the position of executive director is of such vital importance in a housing authority operation that complete and total accord must surround the selection decision."

The board in 1979 finally selected its assistant director, Jack Bridwell, to replace Ed Foley, who had been dismissed in September, 1978.

Reese Hoskin of Collinsville is the only person who was on the board for both decisions. He voted against Hampton in 1978.

Hampton, 39, comes with a long list of qualifications. He has served as second-in-command of the St. Clair County Housing Authority (as director of housing programs) for the past seven years. Under his supervision, the authority grew from 400 units in 1976 to 2,000 units in 1982.

For six years before that, he was a traveling housing advisor for the Office of Housing and Buildings, Department of Local Government Affairs. Hampton spent time helping many different housing authorities, working as a "trouble shooter," he said.

He is a 1966 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, with bachelor's degrees in sociology and education and minors in history, economics, chemistry and anthropology. He also is certified by the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials as a public housing manager.

Even with those credentials, Hampton, reached at home Thursday night shortly after the board's vote, said he was "a little thunder-struck, but quite honored" when he learned of his appointment. He said he found it hard to believe he had bested the 121 other candidates who applied.

That doesn't mean Hampton feels inadequate. On the contrary.

"I've wanted to do this for a long, long time. It's what I've built my career to," he said. "I feel very capable."

The new housing director shares much of the same

"independent" views of the authority commissioners. Hampton said that quite a few housing authorities tend to feel dependent on the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, because that is from where most of their funds come.

"But housing authorities are independent, local entities. They are provided for by state statute, they're not branches of HUD," Hampton said.

"I honestly think HUD pushes housing authorities too far sometimes. They'll get Napoleonic if you let them," Hampton said.

But a well-versed housing authority prepared to "cite chapter and verse" can gain autonomy and, eventually, even find financial independence from HUD, he said.

Cutting federal purse strings is not one of Hampton's immediate goals. For now, he has other priorities. "My first [target] site is really getting acclimated and developing an in-depth feel for the place. There are a lot of nuances to be picked up," he said.

Hampton fills the vacancy made late last September when the authority board fired then-executive director Janet Harolan.

The appointment ends a three-month long nationwide search, headed by Wally Altes, a Collinsville resident hired by the authority board to conduct the search.

After accepting Hampton, the commissioners praised Altes and Commissioner Tom Leffler (chairperson of the search committee) for their work in the search.

Alton woman alleges attempted robbery

An Alton woman told Madison County sheriff's deputies that two men attempted to rob her after her auto stalled on Highway 111, near Mitchell during the weekend.

Michelle Grissom, 20, told deputies she had just left Soccer for Fun on Highway 111 and was on her way home when her car stalled near Chain of Rocks Road in Mitchell. She pulled to the side of the road and turned on her flashers.

She said that a couple of minutes later, a vehicle pulled up behind her. She got out of her car to tell the people she did not need assistance and said that two men walked up, grabbed her and said "give us your money." She said she told them she had no money and they searched her vehicle but did not find anything.

She alleged that they beat her with their fists until she kicked one of them very hard. She said she fell down and the other man tried to kick her, but missed.

When she kicked the other man, he fell to the ground, screaming and as the other man went to assist him, she fled in her vehicle, she told deputies.

Both men were described as being 6-feet tall, slim, from 25 to 30 years old, one with short black hair and the other with curly blond hair.

WOMAN ARRESTED AFTER SWERVING

Mary K. Rainey, 24, of 4038 Kathy Drive, was arrested at 2:20 a.m. Wednesday by Madison County sheriff's deputies on Route 111 about one-half mile north of Highway 162.

Deputies allegedly saw her traveling east on 162 from East 23rd Street and said her vehicle swerved in traffic and nearly went off the road several times.

She was stopped at Route 111 and Lily Avenue where she told deputies that she was preoccupied while talking to a passenger. Deputies found that she was driving with a suspended license and issued her a citation for that offense. She was released on a notice to appear in court.

2-day open house at Madison fire station

Madison residents and the general public are being invited to take part in a two-day open house event Saturday and Sunday at the Madison Volunteer Fire Department headquarters, 1529 Third St., Madison.

Special tours of the renovated fire station, which has been painted and reconstructed in recent months, will take place from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on both days, according to Madison Fire Chief Mike Mack.

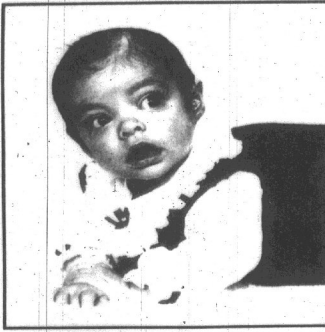

In addition to the department's firefighting equipment, on display for inspection will be the new Madison ambulance, which is fully equipped with life-support systems, medical supplies and two-way communications equipment.

There are 23 firefighters manning the station, including nine trained emergency medical technicians (EMTs). The fire company also has seven cadet firefighters, five of whom are involved in the EMT program, Chief Mack said.

Eight EMT classes, averaging 13 men in attendance, were conducted in 1982. Twenty-five general firefighting practice sessions also were logged, with an average of 18 taking part in each.

City officials participated in a preview tour of the fire station Tuesday.

Man arrested for public indecency

A Ferguson, Mo., man was charged with public indecency by Madison County sheriff's deputies Saturday at 7:30 p.m. after he allegedly exposed himself to a woman in the parking lot of the E & L Quick Shop, 5527 Maryville Road.

Darrell E. Gieseking, 39, was allegedly identified by the victim, Velma L. O'Neill, 20, of 323 W. Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell, and a man sitting in the driver's seat. The victim was in a telephone booth and deputies went to get her to find out if the suspect was in such a vehicle.

She told them he was in a blue station wagon with Missouri license plates.

When deputies returned, Gieseking allegedly was still sitting in the parking lot. When deputies drove to the driver's side and got out of their vehicle, Gieseking allegedly started his auto and attempted to leave, although deputies told him to stop. They said they told Gieseking to get out of his vehicle, but he refused.

Deputies returned to the phone booth and brought the woman back with them and she alleged that Gieseking was the man.

He also was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol and his vehicle was towed. At the Madison County Jail, he allegedly refused to talk to authorities.

'Music and Life' is offered Monday

"Music and Life" is the theme of a program combining the singing talents of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Concert Chorus, the University Chorus and the Community Choral Society, in addition to dancing by members of the University Dance Theater with woodwind accompaniment. The program will be presented Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the Communications Building theater.

The focal point of the evening will be the performance of "A Canticle of Life" by contemporary composer John Biggs of Santa Barbara, Calif. Composed in 1975, the work is described as a "secular cantata," taken from anonymous poems in medieval Latin, which will be sung in that language by the University Chorus. It also incorporates contemporary poems to be sung in English by selected soloists and a quintet to the accompaniment of a harp.

The new English lyrics explore the relationships of life with the sun, moon, wind, water, earth and fire. Music for dance also brings into play the woodwind quintet. Conducted by Leonard Van Camp and choreographed by Aline Wiltz, the 18-part work offers a major contemporary musical challenge rooted in traditional poetry and ideas.

John Biggs was born in Los Angeles in 1932 of parents of professional musical accomplishment. At age 7, he received a scholarship in violin to the National Institute of Music and Art, with later study in piano, bassoon, voice, organ and composition. He has composed, conducted and taught nationally and internationally; his work has received a number of major awards. He performs with his own John Biggs Consort.

The program will open with "O Praise the Lord" (Motet VI) by Johann Sebastian Bach, featuring Jan Hoyer, keyboard, and Del Whitman, cello. This will be followed by "Reincarnation" by Samuel Barber, based on texts by James Stephens, which will be sung by the Concert Chorus.

Admission to "Music and Life" is free. For further information, interested persons may call 1-692-2024.

Delay on lead

discarded lead-bearing batteries. In general, the IEPA cites lead smelters, battery manufacturers and iron and steel producers as possible environmental lead sources. The body can either ingest or inhale lead, which can be absorbed by body tissues with possible ill effects to blood production and kidney and neurological functions.

The state began a three-phase study to analyze Granite City vegetable, soil, surface and underground water, air and blood samples last September. The study was spurred by late 1981 lead violations six times the state standard in four instances, and 20 times over the limit on another occasion. Numerous lesser violations also were recorded.

Although completed test results were to be released in late February or early March, the state only recently received U.S. EPA approval for an $8,000 grant to break down air monitor results into unique "fingerprint" readings. The grant should reveal the polluter, along with the pollution level.

The grant request was submitted to U.S. EPA officials in Chicago last October. "The delay in releasing the premission from headquarters," Maloney said. The state's request subsequently sat in Washington until February, when Springfield was given the financial signal to proceed. No reason was given for the wait.

Other segments of the study are in various orders of completion. Early in the project, Maloney said, the state decided not to release any piecemeal results, due to possible misinterpretation.

One exception is expected to be the lead-level tests conducted on garden vegetables. Spring gardeners in possibly hazardous areas could be harvesting some crops before the state's report is issued and Maloney hopes to get the message out to those people ahead of time.

But a snag also has been reached in the Federal Drug Administration's analysis of the samples. Apparently no ready scale exists declaring lead-exposed vegetables safe or unsafe, or how much exposure is significant. In other tests, the Illinois Department of Public Health completed a two-month blood-sampling program of about 200 Quad-City residents about six weeks ago, according to Gareth Johnson of the Health Department's Family Services headquarters in Springfield. These findings also are still being processed.

The blood was drawn from residents in three test areas laying within prevailing wind patterns of known high lead locations. Monitors that recorded lead health standard violations are located at 1700 Cleveland Blvd., 15th St. and Madison Avenue and Roosevelt Avenue and Rock Road. Other samples were taken from areas with contrasting readings.

In a door-to-door campaign, state employees looked for households having at least one child under the age of 6, plus an adult willing to participate in the testing program. Volunteers were given both an EP (erythrocyte protoporphyrin) test to detect elevated lead levels and a more comprehensive blood test to reveal the exact blood level content.

Lead is a foreign, always poisonous, element to the human body, but each resident of an industrialized society can be expected to register some lead level, according to Johnson.

Also awaiting completion is the underground water quality testing segment, after initial samples proved inconclusive. The IEPA wants a "broader picture" than is possible with the city's current testing wells and plans to drill its own wells.

A review of the city's public water, supply of the past several years revealed no violations of state standards, Maloney stated.

Soil analysis is apparently complete, but results will not be released at this time. Some school grounds were targeted by soil samplers, who took test borings last October.

The single highest daily reading was 6.2 micrograms per cubic meter at the 1700 Cleveland Boulevard. The current health standard is 1.5. Violations were recorded the first and second quarters of 1982 at the 15th Street and Madison Avenue station and the second and fourth quarters of the year at the Roosevelt Avenue and Rock Road monitor.

Richard Egan, director of Taracorp, declined to return repeated calls to his office, and Tony Lindsay, general manager, declined comment on the permit denials or the plant's operations, including the number of men employed there.

Taracorp occupies the former National Lead factory. St. Louis Battery Recyclers also is housed in part of the Taracorp's three-acre scrap pile, mined by Battery Recyclers, is composed of broken batteries, lead scrap and slag, inherited from the building's former occupants. The pile may have nearly an 80-year history.

James Slack Jr., general manager of Battery Recyclers, said that his company moved into its quarters about three years ago, but did not start mining the battery pile until about a year ago. "Basically what we're trying to do is clean up the mess," he commented.

However, the IEPA's "Air Issues" December issue notes that the exceptionally high 1982 fourth quarter readings occurred after operations began at the new plant.

Slack termed salvage operations aimed at reclaiming the large "goop pile" a first-time effort in the world. Many similar scrap piles exist throughout the country, he said, but his firm is the only one to be actively trying to reclaim and remove such scrap piles. Lead and hard rubber are two products of the operation.

He rates the company's relationship with the IEPA as a good one. On Feb. 1, Battery Recyclers submitted a plan for revised lead-pollution precautions, which included surveying and dust control systems to prevent lead from entering the air.

The IEPA would like to see the Battery Recyclers' operations continue, since it is reducing the scrap pile and Taracorp is said to have limited financial resources to combat the situation. Also, Maloney calls the Granite City lead problem a "complicated situation getting more complicated all the time."

He also is to pay a $2,500 fine plus $250 costs and $300 restitution. Date of the offenses was May 24, 1982.

Benda was arrested by agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill presided at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

Madison may turn empty lots into vegetable gardens

By PAT HAY LUTZ for the Press-Record

Empty lots in Madison may be turned into vegetable gardens if Madison city council members vote this week at the regular meeting on Tuesday, Mayor Mike Sasyk suggested that the owners of vacant lots in the city grant permission for members of the community to plant gardens so that the elderly and economically disadvantaged residents may reap the benefits of the program.

According to Sasyk, similar programs have been successful throughout the country. "This is an outstanding program," he said. "If we can get the reluctant owners of these lots to approve the program, we can allow eligible people to come in and get the produce from the gardens," he added.

Sasyk hopes to engage youth workers from summer grant programs as well as volunteers to plant and maintain the gardens.

City council members voiced their approval of the plan, and Sasyk indicated that residents may prove eligibility on a card plan of the details worked out, but a committee will look into the matter," Sasyk stated. "We could plant all sorts of vegetables and maybe some fruit trees. We'll see what happens," he said.

In other business, Sasyk announced the names of 12 persons who already have been appointed to work on a committee to study plans for cable television in Madison. The committee, which will eventually consist of 20 people, will represent "all facets of the community," he said.

Members already appointed to the committee are Alderman William Gustafson and Tom Gordon and Al Hudzik, Mike Mack, Manual Kustin, Jack Lee, Dan Schermer, Clarence Green, Richard Shabo, Joseph Liszewski, and Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Lux.

90-DAY JAIL TERM ON MADISON CHARGE

Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill this winter sentenced Gary A. Allred, 21, of Cottage Hill to serve 30 months of probation, with the last 90 days in the county jail.

The case involved theft of goods from Madison Oct. 26. The charge was filed Nov. 1 and a plea was heard Jan. 10.

employees," Schuler explained, after Tuesday's council session. "To be very realistic, when and if the council sees fit to fund the air pollution division, that will be my signal to reinstate the board."

First Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish, chairman of the alternate air pollution committee, has not called a session of that committee for more than a year, while the status of the board remained unclear. "We may have nothing to discuss, if there's no board," he said.

He plans to review the city ordinance which initiated the board to determine what the function of the city's air committee might be, in light of the mayor's decision. Skubish called the air pollution committee unique, in that its apparent function had been to serve as a liaison between the full council and the air board.

Schuler's position may, "to some degree, phase out the aldermanic committee, Skubish said.

On Feb. 14, City Engineer Monte Brewer received a letter from Robert Hutton, IEPA field operations manager for the Division of Air Pollution Control, proposing to pay the city $210 every six months for rent and utility cost of two state air monitors located in the city's Street Department building on Adams Street.

Those quarters also had housed the city's former Air Pollution Division. The IEPA had expected the city to carry out inspections of Granite City Steel Division of National Steel, to check its compliance under the "bubble," or alternate emissions control, permit. Conditions include the regular spraying of steel company roads and parking lots to control dust that could contain elements considered unhealthy.

However, the steel company has refused the city entrance to that plant until the city agrees to make only 10 inspection visits per year. A proposal made by Paula J. Case, former city air pollution director. The proposal was supposedly made on May 26, 1981, only a short time before she lost her job. According to Gary Brooks, air monitoring technician, no formal written agreement in which the city agrees to those terms has ever been located.

TROY OPRY TO OPEN, LOCAL MEN IN BAND

Band members include Granite Cityans Bob Orender, steel guitar and vocals; Bob Daugherty on bass and vocals; George Burris, rhythm guitar and vocals; Mike Derr, drums; Paul Timon, a variety of instruments, and Cecil Timon, mandolin. $23 million sought from Brimberry

Less than a week after Thomas R. Brimberry had been ordered to pay $1,800,000 to Daniel Farney for defamation, a $23,400,000 judgment was obtained against Brimberry on Monday by the trustee in the Silt & Co. stock brokerage case.

U.S. District Judge Edward L. Philippine also ordered Brimberry's $480,000 home near Phoenix, Ariz., placed in a trust and turned over to Trustee Harry O. Moline Jr.

With many millions of dollars lost by Silt clients whose accounts were looted, Moline has been trying to recover all available assets. The judge approved recommendations by him and Bankruptcy Judge Robert E. Brauer.

The trustee is preparing to sell the former Granite Cityans' properties to aid creditors. The brokerage failed in November 1981 and Brimberry is on trial in May on a variety of charges.

The $23.4 million figure includes losses and also damages done to Silt and its creditors and investors. A public auction of seven lots owned by Brimberry in the Sixth Addition to Town and Country East, Granite City, is set for 10:30 a.m. April 6 in Courtroom 4 on the second floor of the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

Meanwhile, another of the defendants in the Silt case has agreed to give "essential testimony." He is Arthur Miller, a brother-in-law of Brimberry.

Due to a malignant tumor on his left wrist, Miller was hospitalized at St. Elizabeth Medical Center Feb. 16 and part of his hand was amputated. But he will be able to testify this spring, court documents say.

Also agreeing to cooperate with federal prosecutors is Jerry S. Maers, who has pleaded guilty.

BICYCLIST HURT ON NIEDERHUBS

Jerry Jarvis, 23, of 1921 Grand Ave., suffered a slight injury and went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment after the bicycle he was riding east in the 1500 block of Niederhub Avenue was struck by an auto at 2 p.m. Monday.

According to reports, Hubert W. Grim, 54, of 822 Spruce St., was leaving the Mathews Chevrolet service garage and halted his vehicle before pulling into the street, but failed to see the bicyclist. The driver then pulled forward, striking Jarvis' bicycle with the front end of the car, reports said.

Radio Service now 10 years old

The Radio Information Service for Blind and Handicapped (RIS) near Belleville is ten years old. It broadcasts, on closed-circuit, printed material to benefit visually impaired persons in the bi-state area of Illinois and Missouri.

RIS went on the air March 1, 1973, with four receivers. This year, RIS will celebrate its tenth anniversary and will be having an open house from today through Sunday, March 6, between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Anyone wishing to visit the facilities of RIS is welcome to attend the open house, a spokesman said. It is at 9500 W. Route 15.

Currently, RIS serves 2,100 print-handicapped. They receive the signal over closed-circuit radios, loaned to qualified recipients free of charge.

The programming consists of daily reading of newspapers, books, magazines, food and shopping ads, programs for men, women and children, and interviews with professionals in the field of rehabilitation.

The programs are made possible through the dedication of 500 volunteer broadcasters.

RIS is licensed by the Federal Communications

Commission on the sub-carrier of WMRV-FM. It is funded by local and civic groups, clubs, individuals, the United Way, Illinois State Library and the Oblates of Mary Immaculate.

RIS was founded by Boniface L. Wittenbrink, an oblate of Mary Immaculate, a missionary order of priests and brothers dedicated to helping less fortunate people.

The program is non-profit, non-sectarian and non-commercial. It is located at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows in the Dr. Tom Dooley Center, Belleville.

SEEK TAX CHANGE ON FARM PAYMENTS

Gov. James R. Thompson asked several members of the Illinois Congressional delegation last week to consider immediate changes in the agricultural Payment In Kind program to remove tax problems for farmers participating. PIRK is designed to improve crop prices to the point at which farmers recover the cost of production.

It would give incentive to divert acreage into soil-conserving use, in return for a commensurate amount of the same surplus commodity they might otherwise have grown. "While I applaud the PIRK initiative," Thompson said, "immediate taxation of payments will mean that farmers will owe taxes before they have sold the crops. Legislation is needed to allow commodities to be excluded from gross income until sold."

ARREST LOCAL MAN AT BELLEVILLE BAR

William L. Mueller, 40, of 2033 Pontoon Road, was arrested by St. Clair County sheriff's deputies during a recent weekend raid at the Circle 8 Bar, 2001 Old Collinsville Road, Belleville.

Nine people, including Mueller, were arrested for violating the county's liquor ordinance. Four dancers were included among the nine and deputies allege that a dance was broken up the night of the raid because a dancer was not wearing any clothing.

Mueller allegedly had a switchblade knife and gun in his possession and was charged with state misdemeanor charges.

Deputies had observed nude dancing at the bar on two nights before the raid was conducted.

State reduces hearing sites

The Illinois Industrial Commission has responded to questions voiced by State Rep. Sam Wolf over proposed consolidation of IIC hearing sites.

Chairman Rebecca Schneiderman told him, "As a result of concerns expressed by you and others, I have postponed the consolidation for one month, during which I will work with representatives of employers and employees throughout the state in an attempt to find other Commission functions that can be postponed at less inconvenience to the parties."

"The consolidation was proposed because the IIC, like all state agencies, has been required to reduce its budget below that found necessary and appropriated by the General Assembly. Thus, the Commission can no longer perform all its necessary functions or provide all the services it

"Under these circumstances, any budget cuts will impose hardship. But there just isn't any money to cover all necessary expenses. Ultimately, additional funds must be found or Commission operations and services will be severely curtailed."

7 get lotto grand prize

Seven lotto players matched the six winning numbers drawn Feb. 26 and each won $54,501, sharing a grand prize pool of $381,507.

Lotto Supt. Michael J. Jones said Monday the grand prize pool includes $234,094, about 50 percent of the total prize pool from Feb. 26 as well as $147,413, the "Rollover" from the Feb. 19 selection in which there was no grand prize winner.

Had only one player matched the six winning numbers, that player would have won the lottery's guaranteed minimum $1 million grand prize for a single winner. When there are multiple grand prize winners, they share the actual prize pool.

A total of 16,004 shared second and third prize pools this time.

Jones said 498 players shared the second prize pool by matching five of the six winning numbers. Each won $191.50 out of the total second prize pool of $95,367.

A total of 15,568 players shared the total third prize pool of $139,554, with each winning $9.

Lotto is the only pari-mutuel game offered by the Illinois State Lottery. While the daily game, pick 4 and instant games have set prize structures, individual prizes in lotto depend on the amount of money bet and the number of players in each prize category.

Jones noted that the total prize pool for each week's lotto is about 50 percent of the lotto sales during one official sales week.

Most of the remaining 50 percent is returned to the people of Illinois through the state's general revenue fund, and is used for education and other human services programs.

The grand prize pool is made up of about 50 percent of the total prize pool, plus any rollover from weeks in which there was no grand prize winner.

The second prize pool is about 20 percent of the total prize pool, and the third prize pool is about 30 percent of the total prize pool.

Jones said last week's lottery sales set a new record, reaching an estimated $9.6 million, up about $255,000 over the previous record set a week earlier.

Last week's lotto sales—the second week of the game—increased 27 percent from those in the game's first week.

Reports beating, robbery

Police are attempting to locate Preston Bishop, a visitor here from Tennessee, who stopped officers during the weekend in the 2500 block of Nangaki Road and reported having been beaten and robbed at an apartment in Kirkpatrick Homes.

After making a report at police headquarters, Bishop stayed in the lobby for some time, then left the building and could not be located, it was learned.

He reportedly suffered a large abrasion to his nose and an injury to his left hand, but apparently did not want to seek medical attention.

Bishop told officers he had been at a friend's house in West Granite and had no place to stay, as he had just arrived from Tennessee the previous day.

A man took him to an apartment in Kirkpatrick Homes, where he was told he could stay the night and he went upstairs to sleep, he said.

Bishop reported awakening to find someone on top of him, striking his face with a fist and demanding money. The assailant said he wanted money and Bishop gave him his wallet to make him quit hitting him, he said.

Bishop went downstairs and two men, who were seated in the kitchen, told Bishop to leave before the man started beating him again.

He described the men as both in their 20's. One was about 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighed 160 pounds and was wearing a tee-shirt and jeans. The second man was tall and wore a flannel shirt, a jacket and jeans. He was unable to give a clear description of his assailant, due to the room being dark, Bishop said.

Police took him into the

FILES SUIT AGAINST HOUSING AUTHORITY

The Granite City Housing Authority has been named in a negligence suit filed Monday in Madison County Circuit Court by Larry M. Agers on behalf of his infant daughter, Toni Agers.

The suit alleges that the housing authority did not properly inspect property at Kirkpatrick Homes before Agers became a tenant there. The child allegedly received injuries to her right foot and leg when she stepped on broken glass July 4, 1982.

The two-count suit seeks actual damages.

SHOOTS AIR RIFLE TO SCARE THIEF

Robert J. McKee, 1315 Rhodes St., was awakened by a noise and his dog barking during the weekend and saw a man get out of his vehicle and start running north on Rhodes.

McKee told police he grabbed an air rifle and fired a shot in the air. An attempt had been made to remove a CB radio from his locked auto, the owner said.

The thief was described in his late teens, about 5 feet, 7 inches tall and thin, with sandy-colored hair, collar length. He was wearing a red plaid jacket and blue jeans.

housing project and the victim believed he recognized one apartment, where an officer talked with an occupant, who said he had just arrived home.

Some knowledge of the incident apparently was known to the man as police went into one of two visitors there had gone upstairs to use the restroom and shortly afterward an "old man," presumably Bishop, came down and said he'd been beaten. None of those at the apartment earlier was present when officers went there to question the occupants.

Bishop said his wallet contained $13 cash, his driver's license, a medical card and miscellaneous papers.

Bus pact is extended

Charlie Riley of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, the mediator involved in negotiations between the Bi-State Development Agency and Division 788 of the Amalgamated Transit Union, announced Monday that Bi-State and Division 788 have mutually agreed to extend the existing 30-month contract, with existing terms and conditions in full force and effect, for a period of 18 days.

The extension will expire at 12:01 a.m. March 19.

Non-economic items in the bus system contract have been agreed upon and the outstanding items that remain are all economic. The parties are continuing to make proposals on the remaining issues and the atmosphere continues to be constructive, Riley said.

Future meetings are subject to call by the mediator, with both parties given time to reassess their positions.

It has been mutually agreed that all statements regarding the negotiations will be made by the mediator.

Foreign steel

with the lowest price for the particular pipe or materials needed which meet its specifications.

"Where the product is manufactured is not one of our specifications," Jackson said.

The steel casing in question is to be used on the second phase of a three-year, three-phase project which will replace 11,400 feet of water mains. The second phase, costing nearly $100,000, will begin at Nameoki Road on East 23rd Street and continue eastward to a point beyond the Illinois Terminal Railroad crossing on Highway 162, past Maryville Road.

The 180 feet of Japanese steel casing will be used to reinforce excavations made beneath roadbeds the water pipes must cross. The casing was purchased from Valley Steel Products Co. in St. Louis.

Jackson said the 2,000 feet of asbestos-cement 12-inch pipe was purchased from the Centintone Co. based in Valley Forge, Pa., and 300 feet of 12-inch ductile pipe, also needed for the second phase of the project, was purchased from the Griffin Pipe Co., a subsidiary of Amsted Industries, parent corporation of American Steel Foundries.

The Valley Steel price for the steel casing was the lowest received by the water company.

Pat Gilligan, president of Valley Steel Products, said Tuesday that when his firm bought the 24-inch casing in 1981, the Japanese product was considerably less expensive than domestically-manufactured casing with the same specifications.

Gilligan said that if American-made steel casing had been available at the time of his company's purchase — and he added that he could not remember if comparable casing was available from domestic manufacturers — it would have cost approximately 30 to 35 percent more than the foreign-made product.

The Valley Steel executive was quick to note, "We are not now buying foreign pipe of any kind that is available domestically."

Gilligan estimates that current price comparisons of foreign and domestic steel casing, like that purchased by Illinois-American Water Co., would show the domestic product "would be more expensive" and guessed it would be about 15 percent higher than the foreign competitors.

He could not say if domestically-manufactured casing of this type is now available.

The delivery site of the Japanese-produced steel casing for the water company project is, ironically, within sight of the Granite City Steel coke plant facility on Edwardsville Road.

Jackson said that only $4,000 of the $100,000 cost of the second phase was spent on the foreign-made casing. The third phase of the project is scheduled for next year and will continue the main along Highway 162 from where the current work will end eastward to Eduardo Drive.

Steel pact

Aug. 1, 1983, strike. The new expiration date is Aug. 1, 1986.

The settlement reached Monday by negotiators is intended to help make American mills more competitive. It calls for:

—An immediate $1.25 an hour cut in wages, which are said to have averaged $14.33. This is to be restored in hourly increments of 40 cents in 1984, 40 cents in 1985 and 40 cents in 1986.

—Elimination of extended vacation benefits for senior workers.

—Ending of United Nations Day as an annual paid holiday.

—For the first year of the agreement, elimination of one week's vacation. Sunday overtime payments will be reduced from time and a half to time and one-fourth until 1986.

—A letter of intent to reinvest labor savings in steel operations or to increase working capital for steel businesses.

—Payment by the companies of an additional 50 cents per worker-hour into a supplemental unemployment benefits fund.

—Expanded early retirement benefits, including a $400 monthly benefit for those between 60 and 62 who choose to retire.

—In the first full year, no cost of living adjustment (COLA). In the second year, COLA payments will resume if consumer prices rise four percent or more. In the third year, the consumer price index threshold will be 1.5 percent.

Major firms' employees in non-steel operations will have 46 days to decide if they want to remain covered by the master contract or negotiate separate contracts.

The basic contract went into effect Tuesday. In addition, each company is participating in local-issue bargaining on such matters as work rules, job duties and grievance procedures.

Previous tentative contract settlements had been rejected by the union presidents last July and November. The latter proposal would have cut pay 18 percent and did not fully guarantee reinvestment in steel operations.

Joseph Oderchick, Steelworkers vice president and the union's chief negotiator during the February talks, said, "I'm satisfied that we came out as good as we did."

J. Bruce Johnston, top negotiator for the seven firms, called the pact "an important, urgently-needed contribution to our recovery."

A General Motors Corp. spokesman said Tuesday that the auto producer is pleased at the assurance of a continued domestic steel supply.

As Davis noted, there is continuing concern over steel imports and some of the industry bargainers also said they will seek federal action to curb imports, possibly including new legislation.

PLEADS GUILTY TO CRUELTY TO CHILD

Freddie J. Swift, 39, of Worden was sentenced, after pleading guilty Jan. 17, to serve two and one-half years of probation for aggravated battery and child cruelty that occurred Aug. 8, 1982, in Madison.

Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill presided in the case at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

The hospital in Weldon Springs is designed to help children from pre-school age to 18 with drug and alcohol rehabilitation.

"As the word gets around on this type of project and interest is aroused, more people will want to know the details. I was asked to speak to the St. Clair County Mental Health Board on the program and its progress, as they are interested in the new approach with young people," the school principal said.

Since there is no cost involved in the program, it is a possibility that the project will be expanded into all elementary schools in the Granite City School District in an effort to educate students to combat drug and alcohol abuse.

kindergarten, first and second grades, youngsters are taught to picture themselves with cough drops and realize this is a medicine with a drug content and not candy to be eaten whenever they want.

Today's child lives in a society that develops attitudes and, since this is nation of chemical relief, the young learn early to assume an adult attitude to drugs and alcohol, Mrs. Schram told parents at a kick-off meeting.

"Since young people do not want to be different, they go along with others. Adults set examples where there is widespread use of alcohol and tranquilizers. Trying to be grown-up is another reason for the young to try drugs or alcohol, Mrs. Schram added. Maryville School is the only school in the state to enter into this program with every grade level participating. Some schools are trying the educational approach but on a limited basis, Mulach noted.

600 in state await kidney transplants

"Donors are needed for many patients who are waiting for the right organ that could save their life. For kidney patients, the wait can be long and painful. In fact, more than 600 people in Illinois need a kidney transplant that would free them from costly dialysis treatment," Governor James R. Thompson says.

He proclaimed March as Kidney Month while the Illinois Foundation of the Kidney was beginning a statewide registration drive for the Uniform Donor Program.

In Illinois, more than 3,000 patients are hooked up to kidney machines for 15 hours a week. The process cleans the blood but sharply alters and affects their daily routine and ability to work.

Each March, the Kidney Foundation intensifies its efforts to distribute information on kidney disease as well as to promote its early detection and organ donor programs.

To become a potential donor, an individual must sign a uniform donor card in the presence of two witnesses. The cards are available from the National Kidney Foundation, the Illinois Transplant Society and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, all based in Chicago.

In addition, Illinois motorists can become a potential donor when renewing or obtaining their driver license, a service that began last year.

S*E*M*C 4077th staff marks M*A*S*H day

Press-Record Photos by Patrick Foley

Associates of the St. Elizabeth Medical Center pulled out all the stops to honor the TV program M*A*S*H Monday, the day the last episode was aired. Many of the staff dressed in Army attire and Bonaventure's Cafeteria was transformed into the several areas of the well-known M*A*S*H compound, including the "Swamp," mess tent, and nurses' showers. Clockwise from top left — Larry Rizzello, of public relations, one of four contestants in a "Klinger look alike" contest; Sister Mary Linus and Mary Dwyer, a volunteer from Alton, at the reception desk in the hospital lobby; A 1944 Army Jeep parked inside the cafeteria, provided by the World War II Historical Re-enactment Society of St. Louis; Sister Mary Thomas, president of SEMC; Iva Gooding RN, nursing supervisor at the Kettler Center and whose WW II uniform Sister Mary Thomas is wearing, and Leo Konzen, a lay volunteer and member of the SEMC Governing Board, chat about the "good old days" during Monday's festivities; and Dr. Felicia Koch, also in WW II garb, stands next to the M*A*S*H sign post.

St. Elizabeth stresses its regulations, visiting hours

By DEBORAH L. WILLIAMS
St. Elizabeth Medical Center
Today St. Elizabeth Medical Center has more patients than ever before, which means a greater flow of visitors and patient mail. Because of this heavy influx, SEMC has strict rules governing visiting hours, courtesy to patients and patient mail to insure the best possible care and service for all patients.

Since there are many different areas within the hospital, visiting hours may vary. Below is a listing of these areas and their visiting hours:

General Visiting: 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.
Intensive Care Unit (immediate family only): 7 a.m. to 8 a.m.; noon to 1 p.m., and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Obstetrics: 2:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. (Maternity visits are limited to the father and two grandparents during visiting hours of 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.)

Talbot Hall (visitation limited to Sundays only): 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Visitors are asked to observe these visiting hours so patients will have adequate time for rest and treatment and the hospital will have time for housekeeping and care, a spokesman said.

When visiting a patient at SEMC, guests are reminded to limit themselves to two visitors per patient and to keep their visits short, pleasant and cheerful, so the patient does not become over-tired.

"Remember, patients are hospitalized because they are not feeling 'just right.' While some socializing may be relaxing, too much can be disturbing both physically and emotionally to either the patient being visited or his roommate," the spokesman said.

Visits from family and friends can help take patients' minds off their personal troubles. Guests should discuss things that will not upset the patient. A good visitor is good medicine for the patient.

Many patients have special diets and, therefore, gifts of food and candy should be avoided. If these types of gifts are being planned, visitors should check with the nursing station before bringing them.

Outside drugs, alcohol or other medication also are forbidden. The doctor and the hospital will provide all medications the patient needs.

The hospital also has rules regarding smoking, littering and sitting on beds. Visitors are not permitted to smoke in patient rooms, even if the patient is allowed to smoke. Tissues, wrapping paper and boxes should not be left behind after a visit.

Even the most conscientious visitor brings in dust, dirt and germs from the outside and, therefore, should avoid sitting on the patient's bed. Doing so only aids in the spread of infection.

Children under 12 years-of-age are not permitted on patient floors and must remain in the hospital lobby under the supervision of an adult. For holidays, children are allowed on patient floors with the permission from the floor supervisor. These include Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, Mother's Day and Father's Day.

Patient mail also can be a problem — not only for the hospital associates, but if not addressed correctly can cause a delay in reaching the patient.

When sending mail, use the correct "given" name of the patient. For example, do not use "Mrs. John Jones." Please address "Mrs. Mary Jones." Nicknames also can cause problems, the spokesman noted.

Many times there are more than one patient with the same first and last name. Therefore, the middle initial should be included whenever possible.

Some mail comes addressed to a married female patient, using the husband's name, such as Mrs. John Doe. Then efforts must be taken to find out who is married to whom, thus causing further delay.

Sometimes mail arrives addressed to just the room number. This may not always be valid, since a patient's room may change several times during his stay at the hospital.

The reception of visitors and outside communications play a key role in lifting patients' spirits and speeding their recovery. They are an important link with the outside world, aiding in the quick recovery of the patients. Therefore, every precaution should be taken to abide by the hospital rules put forth for the good of the patient, the spokesman stressed.

AFTER BEING 'ROASTED,' Vincent Thorpe, left, the oldest charter member of the Lions Club of Pontoon Beach, still had enough energy to pin a first Pontoon Beach club pin on President Frank Cramer, right. Behind them is Walt Conklin, a director of the club. Thorpe was surprised by the roast. Several of his fellow Lions recounted many humorous events involving Thorpe and several humorous gifts were presented to him. The night was topped by presentation of a plaque of appreciation to Thorpe for his many years of service, and a champagne toast in his honor.

'Nashville Network' to replace WOR on cable TV

South-Western Cable TV has announced that, due to recent actions and policy rulings by the Copyright Royalty Tribunal and the U.S. Congress, it will no longer be carrying WOR from New York.

The Copyright Royalty Tribunal was established several years ago. Included in its responsibilities is the distribution of royalties paid by Cable Systems and independent stations on copyrighted programs which they air. The Tribunal recently ruled to increase the cost of such programming to cable operations by a way to 90 percent and, thus far, Congress has voted to support this decision. The Tribunal decision was heavily praised by the National Association of Broadcasters, the Motion Picture Association and various major sports leagues.

Beginning Monday, March 7, at 8 p.m. South-Western Cable will replace WOR with a new entertainment channel: The Nashville Network. The channel will feature a live nightly revue complete with music, comedy, interviews and features hosted by Ralph Emery, one of Country Music's top personalities.

In addition, there will be a variety of programs delivering comedy, drama, dance, games and of course music, all with a Nashville flair.

The Nashville Network will kick-off with three hours of live premier celebrations on Channel M (26). Nashville, which is owned by Group W Satellite Communications, will offer 18 hours of daily programming.

"The decision by the CRT has affected cable systems across the nation," Mary Hildebrand, director of programming for South-Western noted. "WOR will no longer be seen anywhere in the St. Louis area. WGN will probably be removed from Eastern and Western systems," she continued.

"We are very pleased with the high quality programming the Nashville Network" will provide, however and we hope our customers will kick-up their heels and clap to the high spirited beat of Nashville," she added.

GC man faces weapon charges

A police sergeant in the 7-Eleven Store, 19th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue, early this week, noticed a man who appeared to be incapable of driving. He waited for the man to exit the store and cautioned him not to drive his truck, but to call somebody to drive for him.

The officer also radioed the police dispatcher, asking for the store clerk to be contacted and to notify police, should the man try to leave in the vehicle.

At the time of the call, the dispatcher learned the same man allegedly had a weapon sticking out of a rear pocket. The officer returned to the store, searched the man and the vehicle and allegedly found a .38-caliber pistol beneath the front seat.

Richard D. Genova, 33, of 2223 Marshall Ave., was charged with unlawful use of a weapon, not having a Firearm Owner's Identification Card (FOID) and driving while his license was revoked. He was released upon posting a $300 cash bond.

While she was hanging clothes out in a rear yard during the weekend, a thief came into the apartment of Janette Hoffman, 3006 E. 23rd St., and stole $112 worth of food stamps and a woman's quartz wristwatch valued at $40, the victim told police.

Superintendent commends record of state troopers

Illinois State Police Superintendent R. J. Miller today voiced satisfaction that, "While the Illinois State Police has achieved a successful record in maintaining highway safety via traffic law enforcement, this is only a portion of the overall activities. The Illinois State Police has not ignored its shared responsibilities in criminal law enforcement as the following figures indicate."

State police troopers made 5,046 arrests in 1982 for various offenses of the Illinois Criminal Code. Criminal theft arrests varied from a $500,000 recovery of stolen vehicles and parts in an auto chop shop bust to the recovery of a vehicle taken by a juvenile for a joy ride. A total of 411 individuals were arrested in these auto theft enforcement efforts.

Of the 5,046 criminal arrests made, 800 were drug related with charges ranging from seizing large quantities of controlled substances resulting in shutting down a drug ring to finding traffic violators possessing cannabis cigarettes. State troopers made 362 weapon-related arrests including such charges as carrying a concealed weapon. Troopers were called to investigate assault and aggravated battery incidents resulting in 249 arrests. They also arrested 22 people for such crimes as manslaughter and murder.

In the five-county area District 11 covers, state troopers made 525 arrests for various violations of the Illinois Criminal Code in 1982. Of these, 64 were drug related.

In 1982, state troopers assisted local departments in making 6,374 criminal arrests. This brings their total criminal activity contacts to 11,420, excluding traffic arrests. The majority of criminal arrests made by the state troopers were of offenses committed in the corporate and rural areas of the state.

District 11 state troopers assisted local departments in making 443 criminal arrests, bringing the district's total criminal activity contacts to 968, excluding traffic arrests.

Miller emphasized that many of these arrests resulted from routine traffic stops conducted by troopers during their normal patrol duties. "The alertness of our troopers to detect these criminal offenses is to be commended," he said.

DRIVERS TICKETED IN VENICE MISHAP

An accident at Broadway and Fourth Street, Venice, during the weekend, resulted in citations being issued to Lester Frierson Jr., 34, of St. Louis, who was charged with not having a driver's license and illegal transportation of alcohol.

Frierson's auto allegedly struck the passenger door on a vehicle belonging to John M. Sellitto, 39, Godfrey, which was parked the wrong way on the street with the door open.

Sellitto was charged with improper lane usage and was released upon posting at $52 cash bond. Frierson was released after paying a $154 cash bond.

Gracey acquitted on murder charge; guilty of voluntary manslaughter

Alroy J. Gracey, 50, of Pontoon Beach, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter Thursday by Third Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill. He was acquitted on a murder charge.

O'Neill also revoked Gracey's bond and ordered that he be held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $200,000 bail. Gracey was convicted of murder in May, 1980, and sentenced to 25 years in prison. He won a new trial after it was ruled by the Fifth District Appellate Court that prosecutors had not been properly informed about some defense strategies in the case.

The charges involved the killing of Terry C. Stockman, 35, while the two men were outside Blake's Tavern on East Chain of Rocks Road on Nov. 2, 1981. Stockman was found slumped over the steering wheel of his car in front of the tavern and was shot once through the cheek.

Gracey is to be sentenced in five weeks.

Luke 9:56... "For the Son of man is not come to destroy man's lives, but to save them."

It is odd how quickly we become defensive when we don't understand a person's intentions. Many times when we ask someone to turn to God for help, or to pray for strength, they become suspicious. In other words, they don't understand.

The same thing is true of God's intentions. He gave His Son for us. By believing in Him, we may have life, and have it more abundantly. Many people think only about the sacrifices they will have to make as followers of God. They don't understand God's plan.

He came not to destroy man's lives, but to save them. This includes you. Believe Him. Understand His intentions. His love. Do it today.

Warriors pick up sixth win; down Triad 59-47

South meets Kahoks Friday for championship

By MICHAEL BARTELS
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Earlier in the year, when Triad defeated Granite City South, rebounding was the key, but this time South held the edge, and a big one at that. For the game, South gathered 36 rebounds to only 16 for the visiting Knights, sending the visitors home for the season, 59-47.

"It was a total reversal in rebounding," said Knights coach Rich Mason. "I attribute that to the defensive end. We didn't get too many offensive rebounds."

Mason continued, "They hurt us by shutting us down inside. That's been the basis of our game all year. South did a good job."

A few other things have been different this time around also. Pat Linhart, leading South scorer, hit 12 points against the Knights back in January. Last night he canned 26.

Granite City South Warriors

In Troy earlier this year, Brian Pithers went out early with a sprained ankle. This time Pithers hit for seven field goals, mostly inside, knocking out 17 points and gathering a game-high 14 rebounds. The overall game of South was encouraging as they prepare to battle the Collinsville Kahoks on Friday night.

"We played the best fundamental game we've played all year," South coach Don Deterding said. "By far it was the best total team effort all year."

The game started out slow, with South taking a 14-11 lead at the end of the first period.

In the second period South stretched out their lead and Pithers established his dominance on the boards in the half as he gathered seven rebounds, equal to the board efforts of the entire Triad squad. At the end of the second stanza, South led, 30-19.

In the second half, the game began to even out, with both teams having some problems shooting from the field and South experiencing some difficulty at the free throw line.

In the half, Triad tried the press against the Warriors, but the ball handling of John Linhart and of floor general Barry Grote cooled the pressure of completely.

Four times in the second half, the Knights cut the Warriors lead to eight, and each time the Warriors pulled themselves together, collected their poise and thwarted Knight efforts to pull any closer.

The Warriors are experiencing some problems with their personnel. Paul Macios, junior guard, usually pivotal in the Warrior defense, missed the game because of a sprained ankle. Coach Deterding said Macios could have probably played but wouldn't have been 100 percent.

Jim Hillmer, the 6-foot-8-inch junior center, who usually comes off the bench to spell Pithers was out with walking pneumonia. Deterding said he said Hillmer said he could play, but Hillmer's parents informed Deterding of the doctor's orders. Hillmer will be able to play on Friday against the Kahoks.

Another of the keys to the Warrior win was the defense used by Deterding, a new defense, and one the team had never used before last night.

The defense was a 2-2-1, designed to combat the 2-3-1 offense Triad uses. Since Triad's big gun, Steve Brown, likes to work inside on the baseline against the zone, Pat Linhart played basically a man-to-man in the area and the rest of the Warriors worked a box defense. It worked.

Mason agreed, "Their defense and rebounding was the difference in the ball game. We knew we'd have a tough ball game, but we didn't play with our usual intensity."

One of the key players in the game was one that, according to Deterding, "probably didn't have three minutes of varsity experience all year." He was referring to 6-foot-4-inch junior Gary Apperson, who guarded the Triad big man, Brown, for most of the game. "He did a heck of a job on Brown," Deterding said. "He kept him off the boards." In their first meeting, Brown had 15 rebounds. Last night he had only seven.

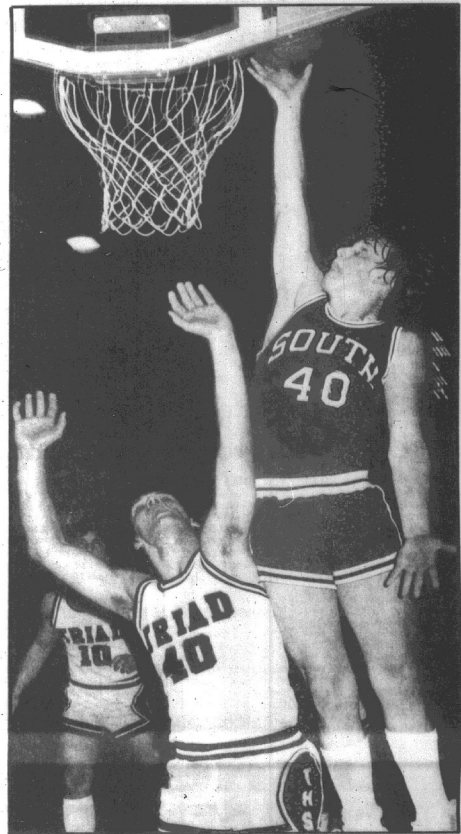

As South prepares to meet Collinsville in the regional championship game, he is optimistic that his team can continue their concentration and play Collinsville a good game, but acknowledges, "we're going to have to play a perfect game to beat them. They're tough, very good in tournaments."

Deterding continued, "We've got to shoot better to beat Collinsville and we've got to keep our poise against the press. Against Collinsville if you beat the press you have a chance to beat them."

Three weeks ago Edwardsville beat Collinsville at home by two. Two weeks ago Edwardsville had to scrap from four behind in the last minute of play to beat South by four. South has two things going for them. 1) They have developed a lot of poise of late and 2) they're at home. It just may be enough to come out of it a winner.

EASY TWO. Granite City South's Pat Linhart made it look easy with this bucket in the fourth quarter of Wednesday night's regional cage game. ## Collinsville ends Steeler cage season, forever

By JIM SCHLUETER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — There were no surprises at the Granite City South Regional Tuesday night, and that suited the Collinsville Kahoks basketball team just fine.

The heavily favored Kahoks blasted Granite City North 71-43 in the first game of the regional to earn a berth in the regional final Friday night against the winner of the Triad-Granite City South game Wednesday. That later proved to be the Warriors. Game time for the regional championship is 7:30 p.m.

North, which finished the season a lowly 3-22, stayed within striking distance to the Kahoks, 17-7, for most of the first half. Collinsville led 20-16 after the first quarter, but by halftime the lead was stretched to 40-30.

"We just have a little too much," coach Bill Ohlendorf said. "We let their pressure bother us a little too much and we lost our composure."

The Kahoks, who forced North into 28 turnovers, took advantage of 10 Steeler miscues in the third quarter rout the Steelers. After North started the third quarter with a bucket by Steve Trittschuh, Collinsville scored eight straight on two jumpers by Chris Langley and one each from Marc Parker and Mike Hunter.

That burst put the game out of reach, and Kahok coach Gene Catalpa cleared his bench before the third quarter was over.

"We got to play everybody and win comfortable, and we're happy with that," Catalpa said. "North shot really well, and I thought they played awfully well in the first half."

North started back in a 1-3-1 zone defense in an attempt to stymie the Kahok inside game, but Steve Giacoleto and Chris Langley joined Parker in shooting over the sagging Steeler defenders. The Steelers tried to run on the Kahoks early, but they found out that a sagging zone and the fastbreak do not mix.

"We tried a little speed, but it's hard when we're camping back in the zone to get out of there," Ohlendorf said. "You really should play them man-to-man, but you have to have size to do it and we don't."

Parker led the Kahoks' balanced attack with 16 points, and he also grabbed five rebounds and made some nifty passes inside.

Trittschuh led the Steelers with 17 points while Scott Cant scored 10 and grabbed a team-high six rebounds.

Although no one was surprised with the game's outcome, Tuesday's game had significance because it marked the end of Granite City North basketball.

Ohlendorf has been North's only basketball coach during the Steelers' 10-year history. He came over after many successful years at Venice, and he hates to see his coaching days at North come to a close.

"It's tough leaving the kids. These are good kids, and we had a lot of underclassmen to build with," Ohlendorf said. "We had some good years when we first started out, and we've had some lean years but it was turning around again."

That's what the coaching is for, it's for the young men, and when you lose that, it's a big part of your life. You get 14 or 15 kids to work together and give everything they've got, that's what makes the world go around."

And here's a strange twist for trivia buffs. Who scored the last basket in the Steelers' last game?

The answer is Bill Ohlendorf, son of the North coach, who of course is not a Steeler but a reserve guard for the Kahoks. The 6-1 senior put in a breakaway layup as the final buzzer sounded.

In Vandalia Sectional

Trojans edge Minutemen in OT

Meets Vandals Friday for championship

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

VANDALIA — How many ways can a team blow an 11-point lead? Let the Madison Trojans count the ways.

Despite an 11-point halftime lead for Madison, the Trojans needed an overtime period to topple previously undefeated Bunker Hill 52-50 at the Vandalia Class A Sectional Tournament.

Madison, 25-4 this season, will now meet Vandalia at 7:30 p.m. Friday for the sectional championship. The winner will meet the Bridgeport (Red Hill) Sectional champion at the Charleston Super-Sectional Tuesday. Undefeated Lawrenceville is favored to win that sectional.

Madison should be thankful they were able to outscore the Minutemen 20-9 in the second quarter to take a 30-19 halftime lead. Otherwise, the Trojans would have called it quits for the season.

Defense was the key for the crucial second quarter. Robert Bishop came off the bench for Madison and picked up three steals, half of the Trojans' turnovers that quarter. On top of that, the Minutemen made just three of 12 shots that quarter.

Meanwhile, the Trojans, capitalizing on Bunker Hill's mistakes, hit nine of 15 shots in the quarter.

"We played an excellent game the first, third and fourth quarters, and it's a shame our bad quarter had such a big effect on the game," Bunker Hill coach Jim Hlatka said.

Madison's shooting deteriorated fast in the second half. Although the Trojans only scored eight points in the third quarter, Madison still maintained a seven-point lead going into the fourth quarter.

With 3:33 to go, Madison still had a comfortable nine point lead, 48-39. The only thing Bunker Hill could do to get back in the game was foul. The Trojans, a 60 percent free throw shooting team in its first 26 games, seemed to have victory in hand.

What happened in the final 2:35 of the quarter would be a nightmare for Madison.

Leroy Pryor stepped to the line in the bonus situation with 2:35 to go. Pryor missed the first shot and Bunker Hill got the ball. Dave Sauerwein made two free throws a minute later.

With 1:33 to go, Michael Young stepped to the line for Madison. Young, also in the bonus, missed a free throw.

Nine seconds later, Pryor was again in the bonus and missed a free throw. Ten seconds after that, Terry Hamilton was in the bonus. Hamilton missed. Sauerwein cut the lead to four with a lay-up.

After Mark Johnson stole the ball from the Trojans, Hamilton fouled Bunker Hill's Darrell Rucker in the act of shooting with 33 seconds left. Rucker made the first free throw but not the second. Madison's John Hughes pulled the rebound and was fouled by Wally Komnick.

Hughes, a 74 percent free throw shooter, seemed a prime candidate to keep the game out of overtime. Hughes also missed the top end of a one-and-one situation.

Madison won a jump ball, and with 37 seconds left, Victor Valentine, a 70 percent free throw shooter, was fouled intentionally by Komnick. Valentine kept Madison's futility streak going by missing both free throws.

With 14 seconds left, Hamilton fouled Sauerwein, and Sauerwein made both free throws to tie the game.

Madison tried to tie the game in the remaining seconds, but Johnson stole the ball again with two seconds left to put the game into overtime.

"We're really pretty good shooters," Madison coach Larry Graham said. "We did the same thing we did against Lovejoy, we missed the free throws at the end of the game."

"Who knows, maybe other coaches will be fouling us late in the game all the time to get us to the line the way we have been shooting," Graham added.

Madison missed its first three shots in the overtime, and Komnick missed two easy inside shots.

With 1:12 left in overtime, Gant Harper, a relative of former Collinsville great Bogie Redmon, fouled out of the game. Hamilton, in typical Madison fashion, missed the free throw. However, when Hamilton fouled out of the game with 41 seconds left, Rucker missed a free throw too.

The Trojans worked the ball around the court for the next 57 seconds before Valentine made a jump shot from 12 feet out. Valentine was also called for charging on the shot, and Sauerwein walked to the line and made both shots to tie the game again.

Sauerwein, who put Bunker Hill back in the game, accidentally took the Minutemen out of the game.

Sauerwein moved in front of Pryor, who was dribbling down the court near the Trojan bench, and got the foul with two seconds left.

Most people thought the game was going into overtime, knowing the luck Madison had at the line in the fourth quarter. However, Pryor stepped to the line and calmly made both free throws.

Sauerwein, trying throw the ball all the way down the court, was called for a five-second violation. Madison, which had almost beat itself, finally could breathe easier.

"I'm really happy with the way we played tonight," Graham said. "Keith Wyatt was the only player on this team that was in the sectional game last year, and he was in for only a minute, and that's not enough to get him over the pressure of a game like this."

Hamilton led a balanced Madison scoring attack with 14 points. Hughes added 12, and Pryor and Valentine both added 10 points.

Sauerwein led Bunker Hill with 23 points, and Harper added 12 points for Bunker Hill, which ended at 28-1.

"It always hurts to lose. Even at home, I hate to lose, and hope our team learns that too," Hlatka said. "We gave 100 percent this season, and we lost to a good Madison team. Larry Graham and Dave Hodges both do a good job with them."

Madison 10 20 8 10 (4)-52

AT LAST! After a long series of missed shots and rebounds, Madison's Terry Hamilton (42) finally puts in a key lay-up against Bunker Hill at the Vandalia Class A Sectional Tournament Wednesday. The Trojans needed an overtime to defeat the Minutemen 52-50 to advance to Friday's championship game against Vandalia.

Vandals down Wesclin in lackluster contest

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

VANDALIA — A casual basketball observer would probably say neither Vandalia nor (Trenton) Wesclin went to advance to the championship game of the Vandalia Class A Sectional Tournament.

Both teams didn't fare well from the field, but Vandalia made shot well when they had to and pulled out a 58-51 victory over Wesclin Tuesday.

Vandalia, the winner of last season's sectional, will play Madison in the title game Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Both teams shot a meager 42 percent through the first three quarters of the game. In the first 2 1/2 minutes of the fourth quarter, Vandalia missed all four of its shots. What the Vandals did in the final 5 1/2 was close to amazing.

The Vandals made all four of their free throw attempts in the final minutes and made 9 of 11 free throws to pull out the victory. Meanwhile, Wesclin only made six of 25 shots from the field in the quarter.

For the game, Vandalia shot for 45 percent, and Wesclin shot for 34 percent.

"I don't know why we were shooting so poorly, but I know Wesclin hasn't been here in while, so I can understand why they couldn't shoot well. I'm sure they were nervous," Vandalia coach Rick Moss said.

Vandalia started getting hot in the third quarter when top scorer Jeff Mefford scored eight points to give Vandalia a 39-37 lead at the end of the quarter.

Mefford scored 18 points for the Vandals, somewhat off his average of 20 a game.

"Mefford's got to get his 20 points for us to win," Moss said. "He's been shooting around 60 percent this year, and we have to go to him for us to win."

Mark Daniels scored 13 points for the Vandals, and Bob Betts added another 12 points for Vandalia, now 19-7 for the season.

"I think what turned us around was our halftime talk. I told them that on defense we weren't intense enough. In the second half, we started to get more intense and made them make mistakes," Moss said.

Tonn Draper led Wesclin with 18 points and Jeff Demond added 13 points for Wesclin, which finished the season with a 23-6 record.

North, South Madison prep for girls' regionals

Regional tournaments for both Class AA and Class A girls basketball teams begin Monday at Granite City North and East St. Louis Assumption.

North, the top seed at its own regional, will play host to Granite City South, Edwardsville and Roxana in its regional.

Meanwhile, Madison is the top seed at Assumption, which hosts a six-team regional. Other teams at Assumption include Duplo, Lovejoy, Alton-Marquette and (Trenton) Wesclin.

All four teams at North will be in action Monday. North takes on Roxana at 6:30 p.m., and South meets Edwardsville at 8 p.m. in the other first round game. The two winners meet each other Thursday at 7:30 p.m. for the regional championship.

Winners from the Cahokia, Belleville West and Jerseyville Regionals join the North winner at the Granite City South Sectional March 14 and 16.

"North, South and Edwardsville have proved they're capable of beating each other, and all three have a good shot to win," South coach Gary Morgan said.

At Assumption, Madison and Duplo earned first round byes. On Monday, Wesclin plays Marquette and Assumption plays Lovejoy. On Wednesday, Madison meets the Wesclin-Marquette winner at 6:30 p.m. and Duplo plays the Assumption-Lovejoy winner at 8 p.m. The championship game at Assumption will be played at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The winners of the Assumption, Staunton, Litchfield and Pittsfield Regionals advance to the Bunker Hill Sectional March 14 and 16.

Prepare for regional

Steelerettes dump Triad cagers in overtime

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North's Lisa Lilley scored with 19 seconds remaining in overtime to give the Steelerettes a 54-53 victory over visiting Triad Tuesday night. It was North's 10th win of the season.

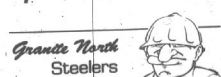

The Steelerettes jumped to an early 10-4 first quarter lead, and maintained that lead until the fourth quarter when the Knights tied the contest.

"The game should never have gone into overtime," Steeler coach Harry Cook said. "We missed some crucial fastbreak layups that we shouldn't have."

By the end of the third quarter, the Steelerettes missed eight fastbreak attempts. By the end of the game, that total was nine.

"We ran down the court for what should have been easy points," Cook said referring to the missed layups. "But instead, we came up with nothing. That really hurt us."

Fortunately for the Steelerettes in the lengthened contest, their balanced scoring game prevailed over the one-person Triad show of Amy Gire. Gire led both teams with 23 points, while

Granite North Steelerettes

Lilley paced the North five with with 19 points.

Triad made things as difficult as they could for the Steelerettes.

Throughout the contest, the Knights whittled away at North's six-point first-quarter lead. By halftime, the Steelerettes lead was cut to three, 25-22.

In the third quarter, the Steelerettes outscored the Knights 10-9, to move up by four, 35-31. In the fourth quarter, Triad went ramped, outscoring North 16-12, to tie the game and send it into overtime.

North had an opportunity to win the contest with six seconds remaining in regulation time, but failed to capitalize from the free throw stripe.

Edwardsville shocks Warriors; South loses 63-50

GRANITE CITY — Amy Oberdieck, the center for Edwardsville's girls basketball team, shocked Granite City South Monday, and the Warriors were never able to recover.

Although Oberdieck only scored nine points, her blocked shots prevented South from setting up its basic offense, and the Tigers defeated South 63-50 in Gateway East Conference game.

Oberdieck's value to the Tigers was evident in the first quarter. The Warriors only scored four points in the fourth quarter, and that was because Oberdieck was able to block the shots of South center Trish Skinner.

Assistant coach Barry Schroeder, who led the varsity Warriors in the absence of head coach Gary Morgan, said, "She stopped our offense with a bunch of shots and a bunch of rebounds. We got the ball up there, and they took it right back down."

Granite South Warriors

Skinner scored only four points in the quarter. However, the Warriors were able to get Oberdieck in foul trouble, and the lane suddenly became open for Skinner, who scored 26 points in the game.

Edwardsville had a 13-4 lead at the end of the first quarter and a 32-17 lead at halftime. South was able to cut the Tigers' lead to eight at the end of three quarters when Oberdieck was out of the game.

Cindy Cox was extremely hot from outside for Edwardsville and led a balanced scoring attack with 19 points.

"I was real happy with the way the girls hung in there and didn't fold," Cook said after the contest.

The Steelerettes won the contest despite an ankle injury to Trish Atkinson, one of North's usual starting forwards.

The Steelerettes have just one more contest, tonight against Althoff, before they begin regional competition Monday. The Steelerettes, seeded first in the North Regional, are scheduled to meet fourth seeded Roxana on Monday at 6:30 p.m.

The Warriors, also in the regional, will meet second seeded Edwardsville in the second game at 8 p.m. The championship game is scheduled for Thursday evening.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Rohlfing should have been signed

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

If I live a thousand years I'll never be able to fathom the scouting practices of the Major Leagues.

Some of the players they sign... and these they don't... make you wonder what in the devil is going on.

One case in particular will baffle your mind. It involves one Ron Rohlfing, an all-time great baseball player for the Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

And, still over 11 years later, an active... and star... player for the Valspar Lakers.

He signed a pro contract with the St. Louis Cardinals and was assigned to their Sarasota, Fla. farm club. Right off the bat, the funny story started. Ron, an outstanding hitter and a very promising pitcher, was suddenly told "we are going to make a catcher out of you."

That decision was only one of many, for want of a better description, stupid decisions made about Rohlfing and ended up with Ron back home in Illinois.

In four years at SIUE, Ron hit .358.

And, most fantastic, the Cougars' veteran coach, Roy E. Lee, himself a hurler who made it to the majors (the Giants in 1946), decided to use him on the pitcher's mound in Ron's senior year.

And, with dramatic, and startling results. Down in Florida that year, over the March Spring Break in 1973, Rohlfing drew the starting assignment on the mound for SIUE against the Kansas City Chiefs Triple AAA farm club. All he did was hurl five hitless innings and fanned 12 before Coach Lee "took him out" because it was so early in the season.

On that same southern trip, the Cougars, enroute north, played powerful Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

It was a mound duel between Rohlfing and Tuskegee's Roy Lee Jackson, now in the majors with the Blue Jays.

After nine innings, Rapid Ron had posted a one-hit, 1-0 shutout. Jackson wasn't too bad, either, with a 2-1 hitter. Rohlfing fanned 12 Tuskegee batters, too.

In the Little League World Series that spring at Springfield, Ill., Ron equaled the fantastic hitting of San Fernando State's Lyman Bostick, who went on to star with the Angels and to meet a sad death after a game on the West Coast several years back which shocked not only all baseball but the sports world as well.

In that Little World Series, Ron and Bostick hit three homers each and finished in a deadheat for tournament hitters.

Rohlfing not only could but he had a rifle arm and rarely made a fielding error.

Best of all, he was always a "clutch" hitter. But, the Majors couldn't use him.

All I can say: "What a shame!!!"

Ron Rohlfing

Coaches estimate $300,000 in scholarships awarded to South kickers

The success that the Granite City High School South soccer team has had is at least phenomenal. The Warriors won their sixth state championship in seven years last November by defeating New Trier. That's six championships in during the 11-year tournament, more than any other team. None of the other five teams that won the tournament have been able to repeat a championship performance, only South.

The other championship teams include Chicago-Harrison (1973), Northfield-New Trier West, (1974), Hinsdale-Central (1975), Collinsville (1981) and, of course, Granite City High, which won the first tournament in 1972.

Most soccer enthusiasts know all about the success of Granite City soccer and in particular, Granite City South.

What those soccer buffs may not know are the benefits, mostly scholastic, which have resulted from the success of the Warrior program.

Tuesday, at the Granite City Rotary Club's monthly meeting at the Tri-City YMCA, Warrior coach Gene Baker and assistant coach Mel Bunting were invited by Dean Maberry, Rotary program chairman, to discuss the Warrior soccer program and the "fringe" benefits bestowed upon the Warrior kickers.

Bunting began: "Gene and I have estimated that in the last 10 years, members of the South soccer team have been awarded approximately $300,000 in athletic scholarships."

Sports on the Run

By Al Gerstennecker

Both coaches estimated the number of athletes to receive full and/or partial scholarships during those 10 years to be about 40.

Bunting continued: "These athletes are more than just playing soccer at colleges and universities. They're getting good educations — educations made accessible to them at least partly by soccer."

Bunting said he and Baker estimated that 90 percent of all the athletes to receive athletic scholarships have gone on to graduate. Some of whom, Bunting pointed out, have graduated to secure positions with large corporations. He mentioned one former athlete now with Memorex in Los Angeles, another with IBM in Chicago and still another with Union Oil in Kansas City.

"What is important," Baker added, "that while they are enjoying the game they are also getting an education that will support them when their knees go out."

Following the introduction of members of the 1982 championship team, Baker fielded questions about South's soccer program and Granite City soccer in general.

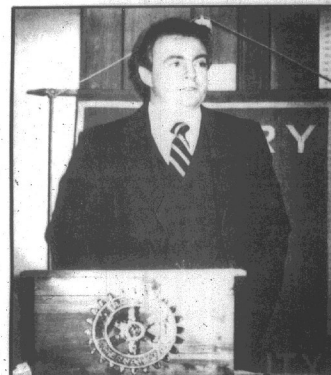

In comparing indoor to outdoor soccer, Baker said, there was a definite tactical advantage to outdoor soccer.

When questioned about next year's soccer team the Warrior coach said: "We're coming off a new year, and the next year will definitely be a rebuilding year for Granite City High."

"I think too, that North was rebuilding this year. Between the two, a whole new program will have to be created," Baker concluded.

On a final soccer note, it has been learned that South's Dave Paz, a 1982 graduate now with Cleveland State, has been hard at work proving the quality of soccer in Granite City. Paz scored four goals during the championship game of the recent tournament to boost Cleveland State to the championship.

Congratulations Dave.

Earny brothers, Veissman named top archers

As the 1982-83 Lane Archery target league ended the first place awards were presented to the Earny Brothers and Randy Veissman.

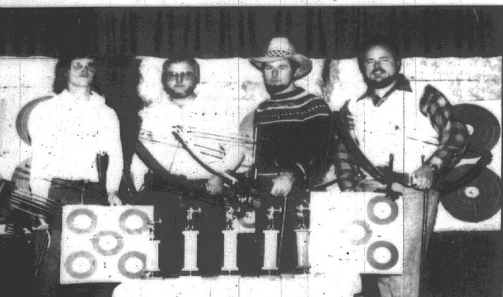

The team had a 43-5 record for the season with Larry Earny and Randy Veissman finishing the league with perfect "300" games. Overall average of the team was 375 out of a possible 400.

Brian Earny won the "Most Improved Archer" award for increasing his personal average from 247 to 292.

All of the team members are residents of Granite City, except Kelley Earny, who resides in Pacific, Mo.

In other action, second place went to Ken Bloomquist, Julie Bloomquist, Bob Kitchell and Mike Kitchell.

Third place trophies were given to Dennis Diane and Denise Chesnut and Doug Frech.

Five candidates explain stands

The Tri-City Trades and Labor Council Legislative Screening Committee interviewed five Granite City alderman candidates in its first interviewing session.

One of the five, Lloyd Bailey, former alderman running against two other candidates for the office of retiring Alderman Margaret Noll, told union members he is strictly an industrial campaigner. If elected, he promises to vote free of political peer pressure.

For example, he said he disagrees with recent unanimous council action to reinstate a $600 yearly expense account, while city employee wages remain frozen. He also backs collective bargaining for city employees. "I believe in unions," he answered labor questioners.

Although he is now an employee of Madison County Treasurer Michael Henkeaus, he is a past long-time Teamsters member. "You're a member of organized labor. I'm sure you will sympathize with our cause," Reiske said. Screening committee endorsements are not based on union affiliations, however, but rather the actions and voting records of the candidates.

Fourth Ward Alderman Warren Decatur, seeking his third term, told the committee he dislikes those that have accused him of being unfair to labor because of his past recommendations to cut the number of wastewater plant employees. Decatur cited his past role as chairman of the city's negotiations and said that city employees have received a total pay increase of 84 percent since 1975.

"A number of times you've appeared before this committee," Reiske commented. "You didn't always get your endorsement... We didn't always agree, but you have done a lot of good things for Granite City."

The screening committee questioned Decatur, finance committee member, about the recently reinstated aldermanic expense accounts. The alderman defended the move, explaining that the period of the council's voluntary withholding of expenses equaled the one-year freeze on employee wages.

"I don't think we feel too bad about getting it back," Decatur said, predicting the upcoming budget also will contain a pay increase for city employees.

In his role as Fourth Ward alderman, Decatur was asked what measures he had taken to correct alleged unsanitary sidewalk conditions boarding the Parkway School Concrete Company on 22nd Street. The alderman told committee members he had taken photographs of conditions there and had presented them, while urging to correct the situation, to the city engineer. "He put them on the back burner,"

Committee members said they are concerned about heavy equipment parked at site presents obstacles to school children and senior citizens, who walk in the area.

Decatur's challenger Miller said he has been involved in the Granite City community for 21 years. He cited union members for 29 years.

Miller agrees with committee members that some areas of the city "do need to be cleaned up."

He affirmed his belief in collective bargaining for city employees. "When you have a piece of pie, you divide it as best you can," he said.

Miller told the labor committee that he has attended about eight to 10 council meetings recently to monitor city activities. He said council members should be more attentive during aldermanic sessions and objects to them holding individual conversations while business is being conducted.

Asked what he would do to improve the financial condition of the city, Miller said, "If you watch the pennies, the dollars will take care of themselves." He disagreed with the reinstatement of the aldermanic expense accounts.

When asked about the rights of former A.O. Smith employees, Miller said, "Most assuredly, I think our people should have first crack at the jobs."

In the Sixth Ward race, Moad said, A.O. Smith former workers should be the first hired, when the plant reopens in about two years. "I feel they should have first opportunity, but the law does not read that way. I feel personally they should get their jobs back."

Moad reminded the screening committee he had already run in two "close elections" for alderman, reflecting his popularity among the voters in his ward.

According to the candidates, he is again seeking office to restore the city's reputation as an industrial center. "I know it's hard, but we have got to make our community better for industry," He proposes special tax breaks and other industrial incentives. He urges active participation by aldermen in locating industrial incentives.

"I'd like to help to make things better, and if I'm not elected, I'll still try," Moad said.

He does not think the council is currently living within its budget and believes in more austere measures.

His opponent, incumbent Alderman Walter Milton, who was appointed to the office after the resignation of Mac Warfield, said the city's financial condition has improved. He cited the city's membership as chairman of the city's finance committee he is preparing for the next 1983-84 fiscal year and believes it will contain an employee pay increase.

He feels the comparison of the aldermanic expense account reinstatement with the freeze on employee wage rates during the 1982-83 fiscal year is unfair, since the aldermen will receive a raise during only two months of the current fiscal year.

He also said local union members should be hired for local construction jobs.

As for the question of former A.O. Smith employees, Milton said, "I feel there are people that worked there that were good people and hope they are hired. As far as encouraging (former employee rehiring), I would probably be one of the first ones to help."

Committee suggests electing county assessment supervisor

By PAIGE ST. JOHN

More than 100 people met last week in St. Jacob to discuss strategies for removing Madison County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton from office.

The meeting ended in a resolution to circulate petitions calling for electing, rather than appointing, future supervisors of assessments and a general show of hands on how many people want to see Barton out of office.

Carolyn Noll, secretary-treasurer of the Organizing Committee for Eastern Madison County, said the meeting was attended by St. Jacob residents, and by people living as far away as Wood River, Highland and Staunton.

Four county board members, Alan Dunstan, Jim Hanks, Jack Franden and Homer Henke, attended and spoke in favor of removing Barton from office for charges pending against him for bribery and official misconduct.

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber also was at the St. Jacob meeting. According to Mrs. Noll, he "promised his next priority was for Mr. Barton's trial, now that he was done with the Van Hooser case."

The meeting served to inform those attending on what the county board is doing in regard to the charges against Barton, as well as to let county board members know what type of sentiment there is against Barton, Mrs. Noll said. "I only wish more county board members had attended," she said.

This is not the organizing committee's first attempt to get Barton removed from office. In 1975, the committee persuaded the state Division of Criminal Investigation, through then-St. Louis Attorney Nicholas Byron, to look into property assessment reductions Barton had issued allegedly in favor of political and personal friends.

The DCI investigation did not result in charges against Barton.

Mrs. Noll admitted that if the St. Jacob meeting had been held two years ago, instead of last week, the group could have worried about being branded vigilantes.

But now, she said, "the people are much more calmed down. We're not afraid of what happened in the past, but we're centering on the charges against him (Barton) now."

She is not sure how much good the organizing committee's efforts will do to remove Barton from office. "I have the scary feeling that he is in so solid in his appointment that there is no way anybody can get him out of it," she said.

Smith described the man as about 35 years old, 6 feet, 2 inches tall, 190 pounds, husky, with dark hair, and wearing blue jeans and a jean jacket.

Police and deputies searched the area, and the Madison County canine unit was called in. No trace of either the assailant or the Toyota was found.

Authorities said no one with a stab wound had been treated at area hospitals.

A spent shell was found on the floorboard of Smith's car, and police said a blood stain was observed on the front seat.

The case was turned over to the sheriff's department because the incident occurred outside the Collinsville city limits.
